Acting in accordance with an annual presidential proclamation, George Ariyoshi, governor of the state of Hawaii, has designated May 17, 1980 as Armed Forces Day.

Additionally, he has proclaimed the week of May 11-17, 1980 to be Armed Forces Week in Hawaii.

Signed April 16, the proclamation read, "I invite all residents and visitors in our islands to demonstrate their warm aloha for all members of the Armed Forces . . . and to express in appropriate ways their gratitude to these Armed Forces members for their outstanding contributions to our great Nation and to our State."

Among observances scheduled for the week Naval Base, Pearl Harbor and Hickam Air Force Base have scheduled Open Houses on May 17.

Pearl Harbor activities will begin at 8 a.m. and conclude at 4 p.m. Hickam will commence ceremonies at 10 a.m. and close them at 4 p.m. Both programs are open to the public.

Pearl Harbor's Open House will feature many entertaining events. Concerts by military and jazz bands along with the Joint Armed Services Color Guard, aircraft exhibits, shipboard visits and diving, parachuting and rappelling demonstrations are planned throughout the day.

Hickam's Open House offers similar activities. Also scheduled are demonstrations by Military Affiliate Radio Systems, flying organizations and various equipment displays. Local entertainer Danny Kaleikini will also appear.

MAY DAY AT MOKAPU — Ten-year-old Angela Misiano, a fourth grade student at Mokapu Elementary School, Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay, narrates a Hawaiian skit, part of the school's May Day celebration held May 1. The school presented a large audience of parents and friends with songs, hula dances and demonstrations of ancient Hawaiian rituals. Highlight of the ceremony was the singing of the State of Hawaii anthem in its native language.

Advance cash lightens load

A recent change made in the Joint Travel Regulations Volume 1, enables members who qualify to receive basic allowance for quarters and station housing allowance to draw advanced payment of station housing allowance.

Members at Marine Corps Air Station requiring advance housing allowance under this provision (ALMAR 011/80) should submit their requests by Administrative Action form via the chain of command to the commanding officer of MCAS Kaneohe Bay.

THE REQUEST should provide: the amount of advance required, copy of lease and deposit agreement, the name and address of rental agent, and a statement clearly justifying any advance payment over the amount designated in the lease and deposit agreement.

If approved by the member's commanding officer or designated representative, an advance payment of the housing allowance may be authorized at any time during a member's tour of duty outside the continental United States.

This advance payment is intended to be used strictly for the purpose of paying advanced rent, security deposits and for initial expenses incident to occupying non-government housing which are in excess of one month's basic allowance for quarters for the member.

FOLLOWING RECEIPT and approval of this request by the housing office, a DD 114 form will be completed and sent to the disbursing officer for payment.

The amount to be advanced will be determined on the basis of anticipated expenses and the housing allowance rates prescribed for the air station. The amount of the advance will not exceed the total of one year's off-station housing allowances expected to be accrued by the member aboard station, unless that advanced is insufficient to cover anticipated expenses. If an advance based on one year's housing allowance is not sufficient to cover those expense, a larger advance may be in order. But in no instance will the advance exceed the housing allowance accruable for the member's tour on the air station.

THE ADVANCE of housing liquidated at a rate of not less than equal monthly installments of one-twelfth of the amount advanced, per month for the next twelve months.

Normally repayment will begin on the first day of the month after the advance payment has been made. When justified by the member and authorized by the commanding officer or his designated representative, collection action may be postponed for up to three months after the advance payment is made and can be spread over a period of more than one year. Repayment cannot exceed the member's tour of duty aboard the air station.

For more information concerning the advance payment of housing allowance, contact your unit administrative office.

Contributions earn Incentive Awards

WASHINGTON, MC-News — The Presidential Recognition Program has been established as an addition to the Federal Incentive Awards Program.

The new program differs from previous Presidential special recognition programs as it involves the President, on a continuing basis, in the Federal Incentive Awards Program for military and civilian personnel. The program culminates at the end of each fiscal year by selecting Presidential Management Improvement Award winners.

Under this honorary program, presidential letters of commendation, plaques and certificates will be awarded as recognition for deserving personnel, in addition to any monetary awards granted by the Federal Incentive Awards Program.

Individual letters of commendation, signed by the President, will be presented to military and civilian personnel for contributions that:

- are beyond job responsibility and have resulted in first year benefits of $5,000 or more;
 - represent exceptional management improvement contributions beneficial to the Government in areas that have high presidential interest and concern; and
 - have received prior recognition by monetary or honorary awards under the Department of the Navy Incentive Awards Program.
- Performance contributions by military personnel are also eligible for nomination.

Contributions, based on intangible benefits, should be important enough to the Department of the Navy and the government that they would warrant presidential letters of commendation. Small working groups and teams, as well as individuals, may be nominated.

At the end of each fiscal year, the best of the contributions recognized by presidential letters of commendation during that year will be eligible for consideration for Presidential Management Improvement Awards.

When submitting requests for recognition, documentation should be typed on plain bond paper, undated and unsigned. Original error-free documents are required, and should not be folded or stapled.

Requests should be submitted by letter of transmittal, signed by the head of the activity or military unit, via the appropriate chain of command, and sent to the Chief of Naval Operations (OP-143), Department of the Navy, Washington, D.C. 20350. Presidential Management Improvement Awards will be presented by the President at the White House.

For more information on the new program see Marine Corps Bulletin 5305 of Feb. 12, 1980.

ANZAC DAY REMEMBERED — Men from the Australian Army and U.S. Marine Corps honor the Australian and New Zealand Army Corps in an observance of the anniversary of their 1915 landing on the Gallipoli Peninsula in an attempt to capture Constantinople. The attempt failed, but the day now honors the dead of both nations, in all theatres, during World War I and II, Korea, Malaya and Vietnam. Memorial services were held at the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific in Honolulu Friday, April 25.

Philippine drug laws draw large penalties

Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos has signed Presidential decree 1675 amending laws relating to use, sale and/or possession of prohibited drugs in the Philippines. The decree, which went into effect February 17, 1980, made several changes to existing laws.

The sale or transfer of a prohibited drug to a minor now carries a maximum sentence of death.

The sale or transfer of a prohibited drug to an individual who dies as a result of drug ingestion now carries a maximum sentence of death.

The maximum punishment for sale, administration, distribution or transportation of prohibited drugs has been increased from a maximum 20 years imprisonment and 20,000 pesos fine to life imprisonment and a fine of 20,000 to 30,000 pesos.

Under current laws the following offenses are punished as indicated.

For the unauthorized importation of prohibited drugs the convicted person can be imprisoned for a minimum of 14 years and a maximum of life. The accompanying fine ranges from 14,000 to 30,000 pesos.

The penalties for unauthorized possession of marijuana are imprisonment for six months to six years with a fine ranging from 600 to 6,000 pesos.

The unauthorized possession of other prohibited drugs carries a prison confinement of six years to 12 years and a fine of 8,000 to 12,000 pesos.

Statistics indicate that incidents in the Subic Bay area involving violations of Philippine drug laws by service personnel are on the increase. Even the least serious offense, the possession of five grams or less of marijuana will, if prosecuted by Philippine authorities, result in the accused being held in the Republic of the Philippines in a legal hold status for periods ranging up to two years or longer during court procedures. If convicted, the penalties indicated above will be levied.

A Proclamation

America's strength is in the heart of its people and the richness of its cultural diversity.

Those who have come from Asian and Pacific countries have long added a special quality to our American mosaic. In spite of adversity, in spite of violence inflicted on their people and cultures, Asian and Pacific Americans have shed sweat and blood in the struggle for America's nationhood and in the quest for freedom and opportunity. Out of all proportion to their numbers, Asian and Pacific Americans have contributed to our nation's progress in a wide range of fields— science, the arts, literature, agriculture, industry and commerce. Bringing with them the strong and varied traditions of their Asian and Pacific homelands—China, Japan, Korea, the Philippines, the Pacific Islands and Southeast Asia—they have greatly enriched our cultural heritage and institutions.

As we welcome new groups of Asian and Pacific peoples to our shores, our hearts are saddened by the suffering that has caused many of them to leave their homelands, but we are proud to be able to offer them freedom and hope and opportunity in America.

As we work together to help them make the difficult adjustments to a new land and new lives, we are deeply aware of our debt to the generations of Asian and Pacific Americans who have come before them. We are grateful for their presence and glad for the opportunity to continue as a land of immigrants, people who have come from every corner of the earth, united by a common commitment to human rights and human liberty.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, JIMMY CARTER, President of the United States of America, declare the seven days beginning May 7, 1980, as Asian/Pacific American Heritage Week. I call upon the people of the United States to observe this week with appropriate ceremonies and activities.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this twenty-seventh day of February, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eighty, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and fourth.

Guidelines deter rape

by LCpl Jeanette Stines

"Rape is a crime of violence not passion," stated Col Mel Sautter, commanding officer Marine Corps Air Station, during his opening comments at a Rape Seminar held aboard the air station Wednesday, April 23. Sautter had been introduced by Abby Arnold, director of the Armed Services YMCA Outreach Program who had sponsored the seminar. Sautter continued, "It is my hope that you have come to be informed not entertained. When you leave here tonight you will take with you feeling about what you have heard. Whether you like what you hear or not, you will share the information you received with your friends or neighbors by the comments you make."

SSgt Vance Dunlap, crime prevention chief, Provost Marshal's office, MCAS, Kaneohe Bay, gave a brief presentation on crime prevention and showed a film. Dunlap announced that several local merchants and the main exchange were offering specials on various safety measures in honor of Crime Prevention Week, May 19 to 23.

The film, "Victim or Victor?" by Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department, presented several examples of how rapes occur and how the situation can be avoided. One of the main points of the film was that awareness is one of the single most important methods of preventing rapes.

Navy Lt Jerrie Tucker, emergency room charge nurse at the air station, spoke on Rape-Myths and Misconceptions. Myths elaborated on were victims ask for it by the way they act, dress by taking chances; rapists are sick perverted people who can be avoided; rapists are sexually unfulfilled and carried away by sexual desires; most rapes occur in dark alleys, cane fields, or while hitchhiking; victims enjoy rape; no victim can be raped against his/her will; victims often cry rape when no rape has occurred; rape is an impulsive act; it is the irresistibility of the victim that produces rape; victims are subdued by brutality; and the man who rapes is a stranger. These myths have made rape a closeted crime for many years.

"Our society judges a man by his productive role, a woman by her sexual role. Society says that men are macho, trained to be a man; and that men are more manly if aggressive while women are supposed to be nice in any relationship and always maintain proper etiquette," concluded Tucker.

"Perhaps the best way to avoid rape is to never go anywhere and live in a thick walled building," remarked Marine Capt Carl King, air station provost marshal. King emphasized, "One rape is too many. If you do not report rap, the rapist is free to rape again, and the next victim may be you." Capt King then explained the procedures for handling rapes reported on the air station.

"When a call is received at our office, a street patrol unit is the first to respond. The purpose of this is to protect the victim and the crime scene. The dispatcher then calls one of the investigators from the Criminal Investigation Division, who will do the interviewing of the victim. Naval Investigation Service will also be alerted and respond with an investigator," concluded King.

Army Capt Ginny Rigg of Tripler Army Medical Center's Rape Crisis Team, explained emergency room procedures for handling rape cases. "A medical examination is conducted to treat the victim and acquire evidence. A RCT worker is present to prevent mismanagement of the victim by being a sympathetic listener and source of support. Victims are encouraged to ventilate their feelings."

Rigg stressed, "Any victim of any kind of sexual abuse is a victim of trauma. The trauma must be treated whether physical or emotional."

Detective James Neely, rape investigator at Honolulu Police Department, explained the procedures of HPD's Rape Investigation Unit. "We operate in a similar manner to the military, only ours is a permanent detail in a set location. If a description of the accused can be obtained, an all points bulletin is issued to instigate the search immediately. It is suspects due to the amount of territory we cover."

"We realize that a sexually abused person has been mentally abused also," Neely emphasized. "The most unpleasant act a victim must perform is the remembering and telling and retelling of what happened," ended Neely.

Ms. Yuriko Hiramoto, RCT, described Sex Assault Trauma, "Rape is an act of violence with sex as a weapon. The rape trauma syndrome has three phases. In the first phase, from the time of the rape up to the second week, fear is the primary emotion not only due to the physical effects still being evident but also to the anticipation that the rapist will return to harm the individual. The second phase encompasses the guilt feelings resulting from the myths of rape. It is only in the third phase that the reorganization and rebuilding of one's life starts."

Ms. Hiramoto pointed out "The attempted rape victim suffers just as much as the victim of an actual rape." She then explained the information used by counselors to help a victim in crisis, "The age of the victim; the nature of the incident; the personality makeup; the life-style; the point of life of the victim emotionally and socially; when the incident occurred; and the emotional support available all determine the method used to help the victim and his/her family or friends."

Mrs. JoAnnette Hall, sex assault victim, disclosed her experience with rape, "If not for the support of my husband, who was then my fiancé, and the people at Kapiolani Crisis Center I am not sure I would have been able to keep going. The love and understanding was tremendous."

Kapiolani Crisis Center's Lenore Peterson emphasized the importance of counseling for sexual abuse victims and their families, "Those closest to the victim will influence how he/she will react afterwards. The victim not only needs help, love and support but also someone willing to hear what needs to be said."

"No one has the right to sexually abuse another. Through counseling, victims are able to see that this crisis in their lives is not the end of their self pride or sexual recognition," continued Peterson.

"Why should I have to live behind bolted doors and windows just because I happen to be female? Why do I have to restrict my social life and my freedom just because I am a woman? Why does my wanting to be free to do the things any man does mean that I am inviting rape?" questioned Peterson.

"No matter what is said or done the victim always feels guilty," stated Marine LtCol Roy Whitehead, judge advocate MCAS Kaneohe Bay, during his part of the presentation. "Under current military regulations a victim's past sexual habits can be brought to light during the trial. However as of September 1, 1980 such evidence cannot be presented unless the accused was involved." He continued, "When a rape report is filed on base, the legal office may get involved immediately if warrants need to be issued."

The Profile of a Rapist was explained by Air Force Capt Phillip Anastasia of the Rape Crisis Team at Tripler. "Every single rape victim I have helped has said, 'Why me, why was I chosen and not someone else.'" Anastasia elaborated, "Every person has his or her own idea about a rapist. However, a rapist is not a pervert, not psychotic, or mentally ill. A rapist can be a clean-cut individual such as a minister or military officer."

According to Anastasia, "There are three types of rapists; power, anger and sadistic. The power rapist commits 65 percent of reported rapes. He has a low self esteem, suffers from an inferiority complex, desires to exert dominance and power over the victim. This person plans the rape, uses the threat of force but rarely hurts the victim."

"The anger rapist," continues Anastasia, "wants to hurt and degrade the victim through assault of the entire body. He uses more force than necessary. He does not look at rape as sexual but as a release of frustrations from perceived wrongs. Although this person could be very dangerous, the rape is rarely planned and usually does not result in death to the victim. The anger rapist commits 33 percent of reported rapes."

"The third type of rapist is the sadist. Although only two to five percent of reported rapes are attributed to this person, this type of rape receives the most press coverage. This person plans the assault in detail, has a rape kit containing all his tools of trade, and usually maima, tortures or kills the victim. The term psychopath is used to describe this individual in most cases," concluded Anastasia.

Army Sgt Feliciano Ferreira, RCT member, presented a short demonstration on self defense. "There is no such thing as rape prevention, just common sense self protection," Ferreira stressed. During his demonstration Ferreira showed a few simple measures to take if an assault should occur. SSgt Vance Dunlap assisted Ferreira by acting the role of the assailant while Ferreira showed what to do. "Once you have hit, kicked, or whatever to break the hold, get away, run like hell and yell fire—never help or rape. Don't stick around to see if you hurt the person," he stressed.

"Rape prevention is like accident prevention, no matter how well versed one is in prevention techniques accidents still happen. The only thing one can do is be aware," Ferreira ended.

Rap refreshes spirits

by LCpl Jeanette Stines

On Wednesday mornings a group of women gather at the Armed Forces YMCA Outreach office at Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay to rap. Rapping has nothing to do with presents with pretty bows but it has everything to do with gift-giving. The gifts given and received are more valuable than mere money. The gifts are friendship, concern, understanding, love, sharing, sympathy, pats-on-the-back, encouragement and other things humans need to survive.

No matter what your reason for coming, you leave with a sense of well-being. I was afraid that I would find just another women's gripe session but instead I found something very rewarding. I found a place to belong.

Perhaps you just dropped your child or children off at the preschool, school or the child care center or maybe you came from work. If so the coffee, teas and cookies are waiting there for you to refresh yourself. However, the people are enough to refresh your mental well-being by just being themselves.

Being yourself is the whole point. Say what you want to say about whatever you want to say it about. Often there is a general topic such as consumer information, hair care, skin care or anger. However, there are enough meetings where opinions can be stated and feeling stressed.

The circle seating arrangement offers everyone a chance to see and be seen. Brief announcements are made regarding upcoming events and job possibilities for part-time work. All during this time those who are new are looking around at the other women with a degree of apprehension. The sense of panic builds in your body and is just about ready to burst when the discussion leader gets started. Abby Arnold, director of Outreach, starts out by welcoming everyone and giving a brief description of herself. The eagerness with which she shares herself encourages me and the panic slowly recedes and disappears.

Like the numbers on a clock we count off by introducing ourselves to the group and by telling our name, an interesting fact about myself, and if a problem exists that we feel should be discussed we mention it. Once you get your name out the rest comes easy. You can see that these women are there to help you and themselves by listening, sharing and sympathizing, if necessary, and to help you see yourself by gently guiding you along.

As you talk and listen a feeling of security arises because you sense that these women are not going to run home and tell the neighborhood what Jane Doe said at the meeting. This is a sharing that goes on here. We share ourselves.

I found out that the group gets involved in various community activities. Plans for the May Day Festival "La Hui Like" to be held Thursday, May 8 at the Windward Enlisted Club were discussed. Volunteers for setting up and gathering flowers and greenery for decorations signed up.

We had to leave our group at the end of the session and return to those normal everyday activities that make up a part of the world. However, we left with the knowledge that next week we can find the same feeling again by simply attending the rap session and belonging.

Happy Ending, a Beginning For This Army Reservist

About five years ago, a young man aboard a U.S. Navy cruiser heading westward across the Pacific, was making a commitment. Although he may not have recognized it as a commitment then, time proved that it was.

The young man is Hieu Duc Bui, five years ago a lieutenant in the South Vietnamese Air Force, now a warrant officer in the U.S. Army Reserve. The events linking Hieu's prior and present military service tell a story of daring escape and gratitude toward those who helped him.

When Saigon fell, Lt. Bui was on leave, attempting to visit his family who were living close to the city. Not only was he unable to find his family, but he could not get back to his base in the Mekong Delta. Bui recalls "heading for the nearest airfield, under heavy attack by North Vietnamese ground and air forces." By the time Bui located a helicopter that was in flying condition, he had gathered a dozen other military personnel whom he put aboard in a daring flight to safety. Safety for Hieu and passengers was the help of a U.S. Navy cruiser about 26 miles off shore. Hieu wanted to go back to the mainland to rescue others, but his chopper had to be pushed overboard to make way for more incoming aircraft.

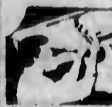

Hieu Duc Bui is behind the controls again. This time as a helicopter pilot in the U.S. Army Reserve.

Hieu Duc Bui, reunited with his family who also had a harrowing escape from their homeland, now lives on the West Coast. One of the first things that Hieu did when he arrived there was to join the U.S. Army Reserve, "out of gratitude," he claims, "for all the help the United States gave to him, his family, and his Country."

Warrant Officer Bui is now a helicopter pilot with the Army Reserve 92nd Transportation Company in Everett, Washington. Although he has had over 4,300 hours of combat flying in Vietnam, it does not reduce his enthusiasm to learn more during the 18 hour a month training with his unit. According to Bui, this additional training may also be helpful in future civilian career plans.

100% TOTAL SOLAR HEATING

The NEW Solar Disc Photovoltaic Module provides 12 volts of direct current from the sun to power the Solar Disc Water Heating System. NO PUMP IS NEEDED ON THE TANK, NO TANK IS NEEDED ON THE ROOF! Gone are sensors, controls, costly electrical wiring. Water is heated naturally, as the sun shines, at a speed equal to the amount of sunlight falling on your home. Sunny or cloudy, the circulation through the collectors varies to provide the optimum amount of hot water. It's simple, reliable, and 100% Total Solar.

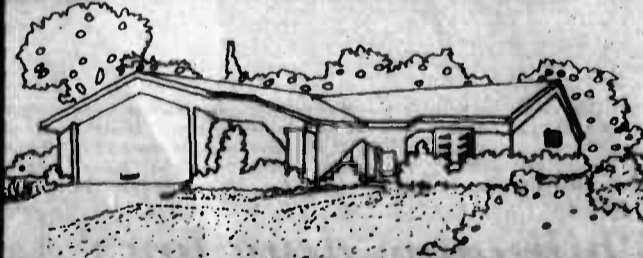

Electric rates are steadily increasing. The latest HECO proposal is for a 90% increase next year. What happens if you invest in an energy saving device that only would save 2/3 the cost of heating water? By next year alone you could be paying 24% more than your present bill after making such an investment. Who knows how much costs will increase in 5 years? 800%? The 1980 All-Marine Super Squad Competition will get under way May 14 at Quantico, Va. The event is held annually. This year 15 Marines from the 1st Squad, 1st Platoon, Company G, 2nd Battalion, 3d Marines, 1st Marine Brigade, from Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay will attempt to earn the "Super Squad" title and remain "the finest of the finest" for the brigade's third consecutive year.

Training for the squad has been low and rugged. The Marines have been preparing for the competition under the supervision of 1st Lt. Otis Ainslie, officer-in-charge of Regimental Tactics, and eight instructors chosen to work with the squad in different aspects of their training. According to Ainslie the team has learned how to fire every weapon organic to a rifle squad.

"THE TRAINING that has been designed for the men," Ainslie stated, "was unlike any training program that one group of Marines would normally undergo at one time." During the four months of training, the squad received close-order instruction in all phases of Marine infantry tactics. A rigorous physical fitness program, lasting from two to three hours daily, also included five hard miles of motivating running exercise.

"I STRESS upon the men that everyone work as a team and display integrity and extreme discipline on techniques used in the field," Ainslie stated. The Marines realize there is a lot of knowledge involved in their training to become the next Super Squad and they are willing to give it their all. "Basically," commented Ainslie, "everything a squad should know in the Marine Corps, these men have been taught."

HAWAII HAS provided the Marines in the competition squad with terrain that could suit a drill instructor's needs till he was tickled pink. The squad has trained at locations such as the Kahukus, Schofield Barracks training ranges, Bellows Air Force Station and at Kaneohe Bay. "We look for proficiency with weapons, leadership ability, complete physical fitness and to see if each member can maintain a strong amount of discipline during the months of training we have designed for the competition," asserted Ainslie.

Citizens of surrounding communities have been giving the squad outstanding support. A group of senior citizens in Honolulu are going to host a party for the men to show their interest. April 22, the 2/3 squad held an impressive tactical demonstration for about 75 of those senior citizens. Despite aggravating rain showers, the demonstration moved along right on schedule at the air station's Small Arms Remote Target Systems Range at Ulupau Crater.

MARINES FROM the brigade's 3d Reconnaissance Battalion; a machinegun team from Company B, 1st Battalion, 3d Marines; and Company D, 3d Assault Amphibian Battalion joined up with the squad in making a lasting impression on the visitors. Many of the Honolulu citizens interpreted the demonstration as an outstanding display of teamwork. The group that visited the Marines at Ulupau Crater was led by retired Army Maj. Richard Trusdell. "They got what it takes and I like it," remarked Trusdell.

THE SQUAD received support from the Army's 25th Infantry Division. "The soldiers really enjoy training with us," Ainslie revealed. "There isn't anything we can't get for training purposes once the request is made."

The Marines arrived at Quantico Sunday. Starting May 14, they will match skills against nine of the Marine Corps' top leatherneck rifle squads. As Ainslie put it, "The other squads call the 1st Marine Brigade rifle team 'the Hawaii squad.' They all want to beat us because they know if they do, they've done something. For the past two years the competition squads from the brigade have helped to put the brigade on the map. They need all the support they can get from the command."

"ALL THEY NEED is a little more self-confidence," Ainslie concluded. "Our eight hand-picked instructors, each specializing in a different field already feel they are the 1980 Super Squad. Mark our words—they will come back to the 1st Marine Brigade as the 1980 Super Squad."

Preschool director shot

Mrs. Susan Cleveland, director of the Special Services-operated Preschool at MCAS was shot Friday evening by a passing motorist while she was jogging on Mokapu Saddle Road in Kailua.

Cleveland, shot in the chest, was treated at Castle Memorial Hospital in Kailua before being transferred to Queen's Hospital in Honolulu.

Police have begun an investigation into the incident which occurred at about the same time another woman jogger believes she was shot at while jogging in the same vicinity.

Police are requesting that anyone possessing information about a light-colored automobile with a rack on its top seen in the area Friday evening to notify them. A reward has been offered by the Mid-Pacific Roadrunners Club for information about the shooting.

Scare tactics arouse mental tune out

Condensed from Lifeline

Scare tactics and strong threats are relatively ineffective in getting people to change their unsafe habits. So say communications experts who evaluate individual and group responses to accident prevention programs.

In the past, many people felt that films and posters which realistically depicted the violent aftermath of accidents—crushed vehicles, ruined equipment and painful cries of injured survivors—aroused fear and thus motivated viewers into "safe" behavior. During the 1950s and 1960s, for example, many military recruits were well-schooled in the danger of infectious social diseases through exposure to films showing horribly diseased tissue and crippling deformities. The more viewers became sick, the more successful the film was judged to be.

But educators and researchers have changed these assumptions. They observed that if such forms of communications are effective, then attitudes, motivations and actions should reflect changes in the desired directions—safer driving and improved work habits, for example.

Various follow-up studies of groups who had been subjected to lectures and illustrations of different emotional appeal showed that persons who heard the least threatening presentation evidenced the greatest conformity to suggested recommendations. In contrast, the groups exposed to the most frightening lectures and illustrations showed the least change from previous practices. Even a year later, these differences still existed.

Researchers generally concluded that strong threat appeals were considerably less effective than mild threat appeals.

The reason seems to be that when fear is strongly aroused, it is associated with strong anxiety which causes many people to protect themselves, unconsciously, by "tuning out" the threat of harm, resulting in their taking no protective or preventive action.

Studies also show that communications are most effective when their informational content provides a means for threat reduction. The use of how-to approaches serves as reassurance and helps direct mildly aroused emotions into the desired or safe course of action. More recently, tests indicate that an effective safety message is one that is basically factual and has some content of serious emotion presented in a novel way.

Thus, the message for persons planning or involved in safety programs: explicit fear-arousing messages are counter-productive to safety efforts. Use materials which (1) portray accidents and their consequences in a sensitive manner, and (2) offer simple, easily-understood solutions so that such situations can be avoided.

From WWII through the 1960s, the military used the "threat" technique in its informational films. The horrors of venereal disease became a classic of the genre.

In 1943 cartoonist George Baker in YANK magazine presented one soldier's reaction to such a movie.

Street Scoop

What do you think about women Marines having the option to leave the Corps because of pregnancy?

GySgt Paul Minor, H & S Co, 1st Rad Bn: "The decision to leave or stay in the Corps should be the choice of her husband and herself."

SSgt Walter Spurlin, Battery B 1/12: "It should be left up to the individual. If she wants to stay in, let her stay. If she wants to spend time with her child, she should be able to get out."

Cpl Pam Smith, SOMS, MARS Station: "I think they should have that option. If they decide to have a child they should take care of it in any way they see fit."

Pvt Ben Smith, Co. F 2/3: "I think it's a good idea. A child needs to be with its mother especially during the first six months or so."

2dLt Colby Smith, Co. F 2/3: "They signed up so they should either not get pregnant or just take time off to have the baby and then get back to work."

My Turn

Surfing Challenge

Our Chaminate surf club would like to extend a surfing challenge to the Marines aboard Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay. Ten members of our club will compete against 10 selected Marines in a surfing contest that can be held at Pyramid Rock near the end of May. Thank you for your time in the benefit of sports.

Eduardo Pineda
Chaminate Surf Club

Editor's Note: Anyone willing to meet this challenge should contact SSgt Al Cox or LCpl Christy Tonegatto at 257-2178/2179, at the Joint Public Affairs Office prior to May 15.

Great things happening

During my three years here, those charged with teaching and leading have been totally committed to preparing their Marines for the unthinkable—war. This is as it should be. I believe most leaders truly care and should we have to fight, they want their men to have every chance to win and return home alive. As a result of our many commitments, they have not had the time or mental energy to match wits with the few criminals dealing in drugs and no one else seemed able to help. Now new leadership has breathed life into NIS and those selling chemical solutions to problems are on the run. There have been 14 arrests in the past few months resulting in 10 bad conduct discharges and varying amounts of prison time. Three of the 14 are now fugitives from the FBI. More arrests were made last week.

So I say to this element, "take your BCD and leave," so the majority of us can focus on the natural highs of these beautiful islands and look to our own abundant inner resources and strength for solutions to our problems.

I predicted your demise two years ago to an infantry battalion. It has just taken longer than I anticipated. More and more Marines will now begin to turn on you and take part in sending you back wherever you came from. Just go—and leave us to the business of trying to protect our country the best way we can.

Storage Lockers

In reference to the Mini Gym, Training building #1538, aboard Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay, I propose the following suggestions to improve and ensure maximum patron utilization of lockers.

First of all, provide patrons with lockers for temporary storage of their uniforms or civilian clothing. These lockers should not be used to store soap, deodorant, soiled towels and laundry (personal PT uniforms) overnight or for any indefinite period of time. Users should be allowed to use the temporary storage lockers only during the period of time they have chosen to physically workout, use the sauna and shower facility. Patrons should be encouraged to remove their soiled PT gear and have it laundered.

A positive response to the latter suggestion would allow other patrons to temporarily use a locker to store their uniform or civilian clothing during their one or two hour period of physical fitness training.

Also, space for additional lockers can be made if the long interior wall of building #1538 were cleared, that is, a clearance of about four to five feet from the interior wall of one side of building #1538. For privacy, the locker area adjacent to the interior wall could be separated from the physical fitness training enthusiasts with partitions. At additional expense, the locker area could also be elevated from the floor of the building and the additional space thereunder used for storing physical fitness training/exercise equipment.

In conclusion, I believe maximum utilization of the lockers at the Physical Fitness Training building #1538 can be achieved if my suggestions are carried out.

Strays

In recent months there has been a noticeable increase in the number of stray dogs roaming about the Ulupau housing area.

These animals not only create a nuisance by getting into trash bins and messing up neighborhood lawns, but more importantly, they are a potential threat to the safety of air station residents, small children in particular.

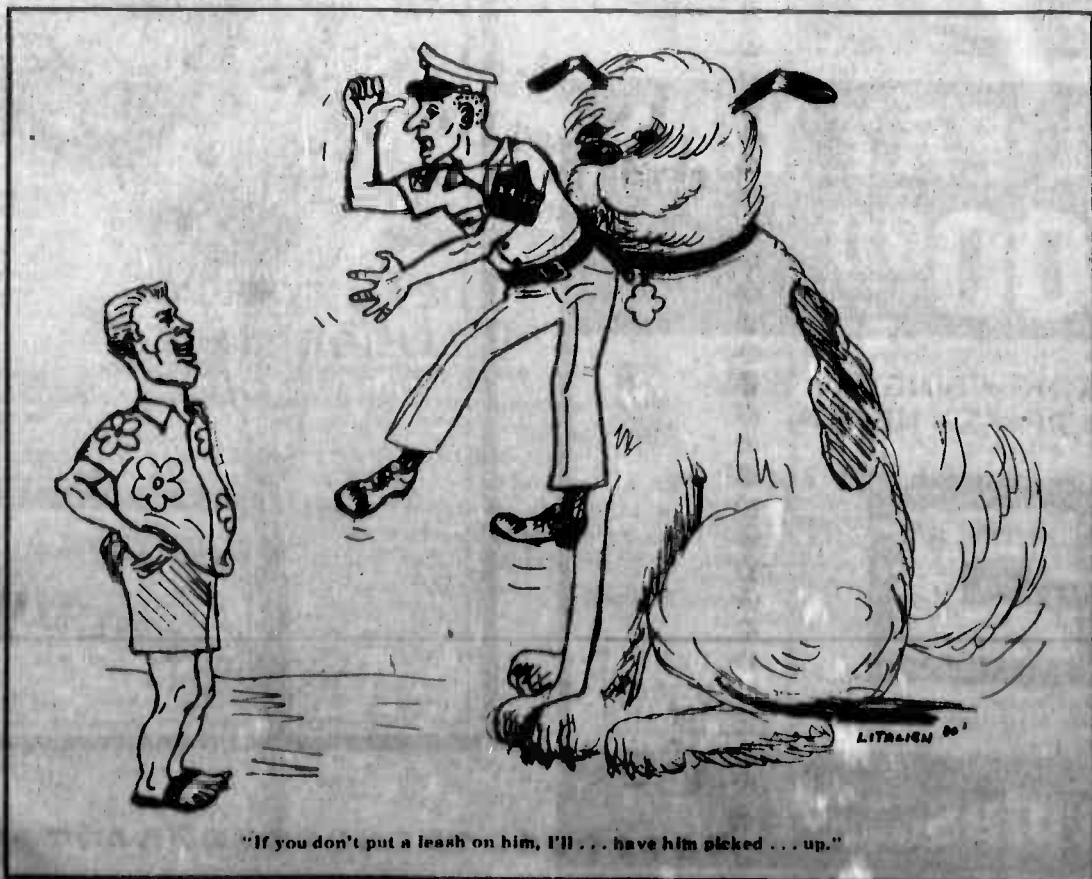

I was witness to one instance where my own five year-old son narrowly escaped being bitten by someone's unsecured dog. If I hadn't been there to ward off the animal, my child could have been seriously injured.

As difficult to comprehend as it may seem to some narrow-minded individuals, any dog can be dangerous if allowed to wander indiscriminately. Why do so many people unconcernedly let their pets run loose? How would one of them feel if they were out enjoying an evening run and suddenly discovered a german shepherd attempting to remove a portion of leg or buttocks?

We have so many seemingly unsolvable problems in this world. In this instance the solution is simple. Let's keep the air station from going to the dogs by keeping them properly restrained.

I personally like dogs. It's just certain irresponsible owners who don't care about their pets or for the well-being of others who I have no use for.

The rifle and pistol team from Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay fired their way to the gold medal in the 1980 Pacific Division Match held the week ending April 25 at Camp Smith's Pauloa Range at Ewa Beach.

The winning team, consisting of 1st Lt Karen Hunt, Sgt James Inglett, Sgt John Szarenski, and Cpl Daniel Varavec, slid by Camp Smith by six points. Hunt and Inglett also qualified to go to Camp Lejeune, N.C., to compete with the M-14 rifle in the Marine Corps Match scheduled May 19 to 23.

Of the six medals awarded (one gold, two silver and three bronze), Hunt was given the first bronze for the pistol and Inglett took the second silver for the rifle. This is the first time K-Bay has won the match since 1975.

The overall winner, MSgt Albert Miral, Camp Smith, was awarded a National match M-14 rifle. On the pistol range, Hunt shot a 499.

The performance of the Marines not only won the Camp Smith Trophy but allowed two of its team members to go to the higher competition.

Station Comm tops H&HS

by Sgt Dennis Litalen

In a battle of big sticks, Station Communications edged Headquarters and Headquarters Squadron, 15-14 in an intramural slow-pitch softball game held at Pollock Field.

A throwing error in the final inning was the deciding factor in the closely contested ballgame, as two Station Comm based runners scored when PO1 Tom Bell threw to second base in an attempted squeeze play. The errant ball skittered into the outfield, giving Station Comm the win.

H&HS came out swinging in the first inning taking an early 5-0 lead. 1st Lt Frank Foster led his Station Comm teammates right back into the contest with a two run double.

In the bottom of the second inning, Station Comm continued to chip away at H&HS' dwindling advantage as Sgt Al Marberry singled and drove in SSgt Lonnie Simmons narrowing the score to 5-3.

Station Comm held H&HS scoreless in the third inning, with left fielder Foster making a diving catch on a flyball hit by SSgt James Tatem. Station Comm came to bat in the bottom of the third and took command by scoring four runs. The Station Comm sluggers went to work with doubles by Cpl L.H. Davis, Sgt Dan Howard, Foster and Simmons.

H&HS came right back in the fourth inning, as Cpl John Humphrey singled to lead off an eight hit barrage that tallied four runs and returned the lead to the H&HS squad, 11-7.

Station Comm resumed their steady scoring in the bottom of the fourth slicing the lead to 11-8, courtesy of a sacrifice fly by Dan Howard.

In the fifth inning, Humphrey repeated his previous inning heroics by slapping a single into center field. H&HS used the fifth to cushion their lead by adding two more runs provided by Tom Bell and GySgt Gary Hill.

The Station Comm team refused to buckle under the onslaught and battled back with two runs of their own. SSgt Hill Lukins, H&HS made a great catch, snaring a potential home hit by Sgt Dan Moon to halt the rally.

It was three up, three down in the H&HS portion of the sixth inning as they were held hitless for the first time in the game. Foster racked up a run by belting a towering 310 foot solo homer that cut the lead to 13-11.

In the top of the seventh, H&HS managed to add another run on a Bell single. Unfortunately, his RBI was quickly forgotten when he committed the error that lost the game in the bottom of the seventh. The victory for Station Comm raised their record to 2-0 while H&HS dropped to 1-1.

Teens take to the waves

Under cloudy skies Saturday, 28 military dependents from 11 to 17 took to the waves in the Teen Center's first Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay, Boogie Board Championships.

The meet was held at North Beach off the 13th tee beginning at 7:45 a.m. After nearly five grueling hours of competitive boogie boarding the competition ended with an awards presentation on the beach.

The championships consisted of an 11 to 14 year-old division and a 15 to 19 year-old division with both qualifying and finals rounds being held.

The meet provided not only the riders but nearly one hundred spectators with the entire spectrum of the boogie theme of man and the wave, from those who found the seas too rough to participate to the one with a near perfect 19 point ride. The action moved between the back belly board moves to knee boarding through the tub as the waves fluctuated between the two and four foot range.

The winners emerged after 14 heats. The competition was fierce in the 11 to 14 year-old division. Robert Dunlap emerged as division champion by one point ahead of Mike Lenkowski who clenched second. Shane Brown placed third just two points behind the leader.

In the 15 to 19 year-old division surprise was the order of the day. Rated fifth in the finals, Kelly McCready came from behind and dominated the final heat to take an unanimous decision for the division winners championship. The favorite, Jeff Collins, finished in second place one half a point ahead of John Lockhart who finished third. David Reyes finished fourth and Jeff Fisher settled for fifth place.

The awards were presented immediately after the finals. Each participant, except the finalists, received a free t-shirt, compliments of the Cosmic Surfer and Country Surfboards of Haleiwa. Each of the finalists were awarded a trophy and both of the division champions, McCready and Dunlap, received a Surf Craft Body Board courtesy of Bob Rice and Creative Products.

The meet was more than just the actual competition. Prior to the championships two clinics were held to brief the judges, and participants.

A water safety and competition clinic was held at the Teen Center Saturday, April 26. Twenty-five contestants attended the class which was co-sponsored by the Department of Parks and Recreation. Alan King, director of water safety, and Mike Roth, a top rated boogie body boarder, conducted a program that included a film lecture and question and answer session.

A judging session was presented Friday at the Center. Hosted by Chuck Shipman, an ocean recreation specialist, the clinic informed the volunteers, Tom Herry, Matt Simon, Steve Collins, Mark Meviner, Jimmy Brace, Ralph Kreger, Tina Gibson, Billyue, Celynda Roberts, and Eshell Rout who judged the meet, of the intricacies of body board judging.

"Overall the boogie board meet was a total success," Richard Cole, Teen Center director noted. "I feel that the time and effort expended by our volunteers and contestants combined to form an experience worth repeating again next year."

Culinary artists exhibit talents

by LCpl Jeanette Stines

Every quarter the bakers and cooks of the dining facilities aboard Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay, anticipate the Chef-of-the-Quarter competition, their chance to display their gourmet talents.

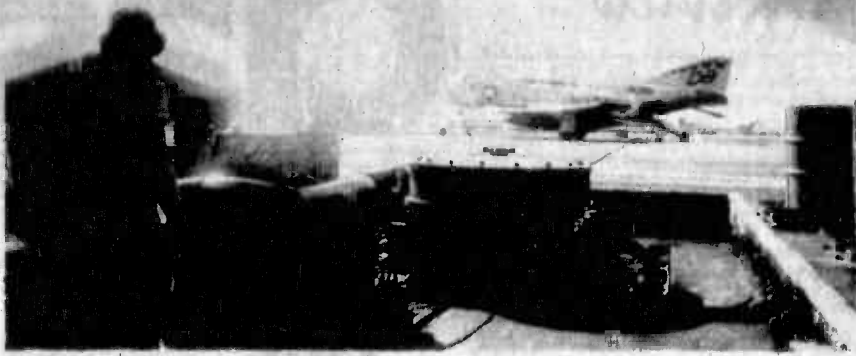

"The program was started as an incentive to our cooks and bakers to experiment and utilize their knowledge to the fullest," explained Capt. Nancy Wilt, food services director. "The program used here is based on one I used at Quantico. The first step in the contest is a test of knowledge. One test is administered to noncommissioned officers and another to privates and lance corporals. A score of 70 qualifies a person to enter the cooking section of the competition.

"We give the cooks and bakers a specific item to work with such as fowl, shrimp, or as in the last competition, Mexican food," Wilt continued. "The competitors are restricted to using ingredients available to them in the dining facility. We try to adapt the winning recipe into the menus used for the dining facilities."

BrigGen Harry T. Hagaman and Col Mel Sautter are among the judges in the competition. The other judges are the regimental commanding officer, the MAG commanding officer, the BSSG commanding officer, and a food technician, with Wilt as the tie-breaker. Of the seven competitions held here, the judges have awarded the title Chef-of-the-Quarter to six men and one woman. LCpl Steven Krivanek of Pless Hall won the competition this quarter.

Self-satisfaction for achieving excellence in food preparation is only part of the reward received. The winner of the competition receives a 96-hour pass, dinner for two at the Windward Enlisted Club, courtesy of the Navy Fleet Reserve, a letter of commendation and a 45-day temporary additional duty assignment to the Hale Koa Hotel. While at the Hale Koa the chef-of-the-quarter stays in a private room at Ft. DeKussy, eats meals at the hotel, and works as an assistant to the chef.

ARRESTED LANDING — During the Marine Air Base Squadron-24 field exercise, a Phantom F-4J practices an arrested landing utilizing the M21 arresting gear which would be used on a limited runway during a combat situation. Capabilities tested in backyard

by LCpl Jeanette Stines

Marine Air Base Squadron-24 and Marine Wing Service Group-17 engaged in a field exercise aboard Marine Corps Air Station, Kaneohe Bay April 24 and 25. The purpose of the exercise was to test mission capabilities of the units. MAB units are responsible for communications, motor transport, general maintenance, security and aircraft launch, recovery and refueling services for a Marine Aircraft Group in the field.

During wartime a MAB unit would normally take over control of an already established but abandoned or captured airstrip. If one was not available the Seabees would build an airstrip at a strategic location for the unit.

Simulation of actual field conditions was the name of the game. The field exercise utilized existing runways but shortened the lengths used in order to practice F-4 recovery into M21 arresting gear. Tactical refuelers supplied the aircraft with fuel while testing their capabilities in conditions below normal. Station weather conducted in-field weather surveying and reporting exercises.

Cpl Carol Shafer, personnel clerk, remarked, "Our work hasn't been affected by the field situations. Space is a little cramped, and the wind plays havoc every once in a while but other than that everything is normal."

In the communications tent, Cpl Charles Trent described their operation. "We are using a new communication system which utilizes push button control and eliminates the need to go through the operator. With this unit a priority call cancels any other connection in effect. We operate 24 hours a day with a crew of three, one operator and two trouble-shooters on each shift."

LCpl William Henderson, mechanized allowance clerk, noted, "Although my job changed very little by being in the field, I feel that the two days spent out here have been very educational."

LCpl Gregory Sellers, heavy equipment mechanic, keeps the cranes and other large equipment in working order. "I've found that the same techniques used in the shop are used in the field. I have proved to myself that I can do my job no matter where I am," he concluded.

Aircraft recovery is the speciality of Cpl Casey Foster, LCpl Curtis Cope, and PFC Donald Spira. "We are responsible for lighting of the runway and for the recovery equipment," Foster explained. "The interval between aircraft recoveries is between 45 and 60 seconds. I've been in this field two years and intend to stay." The other two men expressed similar feelings about their jobs.

Perhaps the most popular area of the field set-up was the field kitchen and messing area. SSgt Merlin C. Cook described the role of the section, "We serve approximately 300 Marines at each meal. Our perishable food is delivered daily from the main dining facility storehouse but in the actual field situation it would be delivered from ship."

LCpl Harvey Reunels, baker, remarked, "In the field I do basic cooking instead of a specialty. Other than that conditions and work load are not that much different."

Cpl Ezell Williams, electrician, was responsible for providing electrical power for the field exercise. Shouting to be heard above the roar of the generator he cares for, Williams remarked, "We have two generators here, one running and one backup. It takes four to five hours to set up the power source for a field this size."

Major John Williams, executive officer MABS-24, commented, "An exercise of this type enables us to train our Marines. We test embarkation plans, assess strengths, and identify shortcomings. I feel that an exercise of this type should be conducted once a quarter if at all possible. The Marines find out that they can fulfill their mission and this produces a great deal of self-satisfaction."

A Family Day was held Friday afternoon, April 25. Dependents and friends had an opportunity to learn what their Marines actually do at work. It also gave the families a chance to view equipment and eat in the dining facility.

Rick's Review

GOING IN STYLE is a movie that defies being categorized.

Viewers find themselves asking, "Is it a comedy or a drama?" They seem unable to accept that it is neither, and it is both.

The story centers around three senior citizens with nothing more to do than sit around in the park and wait for social security checks.

Willie, portrayed touchingly by Lee Strasberg, is the quietest of the trio. His thoughts are focused on past moments in his life that, looking back, he can't remember why they happened. This is perhaps the first incident of the movie's numerous foreshadowings.

Al, played by Art Carney, is the middle man. His main theme is his shortening life is the love of his nephew's (Charles Hallahan) family. But when Willie dies it is this love that cushions Al from depression.

Joe, brought to life in an overwhelming performance by George Burns, is easily distinguishable as the ring leader. Joe is bored with sitting in the park watching pigeons eat. He is younger at heart than in years and yearns for some excitement. From this need springs forth the plot of the movie.

While the friends stand in line to cash social security checks at the bank Joe notices security men bringing bags of money into the bank. An idea is born.

He figures out that if they robbed a bank they would win either way. If they didn't get caught they would have the money. If they did, because of their age and law-abiding pasts, they would get no more than 3 years and probation. That would mean free rent and meals plus 36 social security checks. But more importantly, there would be the excitement.

As planning for the robbery develops the characters take on a few changes. They feel and act younger. From the simple ordering of a hot dog (I'll live a little, I'll have mine with everything) to running in the rain and eating ice cream cones they are happier.

But as the tears of laughter become tears of sorrow viewers see yet another side. In a display of love and respect for the young, Joe and Al give Al's nephew a large sum of money. The only requirement is that he pay them back twenty dollars a week for the rest of their lives, which each has secretly alluded to as drawing nigh.

Throughout the movie's continuing escapades Joe and Al demonstrate that it is the age of the soul, not the body, that governs our life, even though the body may not always keep up. Joe aptly proves the old saying, "You're only as old as you feel." After seeing GOING IN STYLE, you'll feel very young indeed.

Verna Kam, Instructor from Sebastian Music School.

School opens doors to piano, music study

Sebastian Music School and Studios opened its doors officially in December 1979. Privately-owned, it currently has a staff of 12 regular teachers, four piano, three guitar, and one each voice, recorder, violin, flute and clarinet.

Other instructors include an electronic music instructor and a popular-style piano instructor. The school, which takes its name from the composer Johann Sebastian Bach, is directed by Verna Kam, long-time music educator in the islands. Of special interest are the piano classes for senior citizens and other adults. Classes are held in the piano lab which contains seven electro pianos with headsets and one conventional Wendy Cormier from Mavis Tracy School.

Ballet classes offered in several age categories

A full range of classes is being offered by the Mavis Tracy Ballet School in its six-week summer session beginning June 16.

There will be pre-ballet for the kindergarten set, where the aim will be to foster group participation in learning to move to simple rhythms and to appreciate the best in classical music.

Beginner ballet stresses the importance of correct body placement and exercises to develop flexibility and strength. Basic ballet barre and center practice is included.

Older students will concentrate on classical techniques, including port de bras, adage and allegro combinations. Pointe work is offered for girls who have completed several years of serious training.

Adult ballet exercises are taught with body-toning and recreation as the goal.

A highlight of the summer session will be the twice-weekly character class taught by Wendy Cormier, an honor graduate of the University of Utah with a degree in ballet.

Character dancing is the term used for theater dance based on folk or national dance. A good basic ballet training should enable the dancer to perform the specialized movements and rhythms required.

Character class is open to students 9 years to adult who have had some previous ballet.

Patti Dougherty will continue her work with advanced teens and adults in the morning classes. She has an extensive dance background that includes musical comedy and jazz as well as ballet.

Patti has performed with the St. Louis Civic Ballet and Dance Spectrum. She taught dance for six years at Myrtle Beach Air Force Base in South Carolina before coming to Hawaii with her Air Force pilot husband and four children.

Patti has been with the Tracy School for the past three years.

New to the teaching staff is London-trained Michelle Roach. She will be teaching intermediate and advanced ballet and pointe.

Her ballet training began at the age of 5 with her mother at the Leeward Ballet Theatre School.

After a summer course with Alan Howard in San Francisco in 1968, Michelle spent the next eight years at the well-known Nesta Brooking School in London. She has performed at Dance Congress in London and with the San Francisco Ballet in "Nutsacker."

Instructor Heidi Tracy also has performed at Dance Congress in London. She studied there for two years with the Royal Ballet School and Bush Davies School of Theatre Art in Romford, England.

Her training also included scholarships with the San Francisco Ballet and the Pennsylvania Ballet. She is a former Honolulu City Ballet dancer, and in August 1979 appeared with the Scottish-American Ballet at the 30th annual Edinburgh Festival in Scotland.

Class information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Tracy at 261-6217 or Mrs. Dougherty at 261-8179.

Classical ballet taught at Joan McKenzie school

Sharyn Gum, Kelly Kadomoto, Dana Hatate of Joan McKenzie Ballet School.

The Joan McKenzie Ballet School commences the six-week summer session on June 16. Students will take two lessons a week.

Graded classical ballet classes teaching the Royal Academy of Dancing syllabus are offered for beginners through advanced, for children and adults.

Classes are held at the Church of the Holy Nativity Youth Center in Aina Haina and the Wesley United Methodist Church Hall in Waialae-Kahala. Classes will be limited to permit individual instruction.

Teaching the Royal Academy of Dance system ensures the proper order for introduction of all steps and exercises from the beginning to the advanced forms, with the logical sequence of exercises in class and the musical breakdown for each.

The McKenzie School opened in 1958 and graduates of the school are now dancing with companies on the Mainland and in Europe.

Mrs. McKenzie is a member of Dance Masters of America, a national organization of certified dance teachers.

She is also a board member of Friends of the Ballet and a member of Hawaii State Dance Council.

Community schools summer curriculum

Classes for enrichment, classes for getting ahead, classes for catching up and classes for serious learning: Hawaii's community colleges on Oahu are offering all of these this summer, and one of them might be for you.

There are four community colleges on Oahu—Honolulu, Kapiolani, Leeward and Windward. Most likely there is a campus convenient to where you live.

This summer the community colleges are offering many of the basic foundation courses required of students during the first two years of college, as well as some interesting specialized classes described below.

All carry college credit, some are offered in the event, and all are small and friendly. Anyone at least 18 years old or a high school graduate may apply.

A detailed list of courses in this section can provide you with most summer session information.

The liberal arts offerings include anthropology, art, biology, chemistry, English, history, math, political science, psychology, religion, sociology, public speaking and typing.

Honolulu Community College on Dillingham Boulevard has some vocational skills courses, including automotive mechanics, drafting, sheet metal and welding.

It also offers classes in "learning to study" skills, writing, manual communication techniques to help deaf people, and the English Language Institute Program for non-native speakers of English.

In addition to its liberal arts offerings, Kapiolani Community College on Pensacola Street and Kapiolani Boulevard has a schedule of morning lecture courses in business, accounting, data processing, information and computer science, economics and office machines.

Assets School emphasizes individual help

The Assets School for Learning Disabled Children is a private, nonprofit school on the base of Pearl Harbor. It services children who show persistent, severe discrepancy between achievement and intellectual ability. Such discrepancies can manifest themselves as an imperfect ability to listen, read, write, spell, compute, remember, or verbally express. The age range at Assets is 3-14.

Referrals come from other schools and professional agencies as well as from parents. With a limit of 10 children to the self-contained classroom, the staff currently consists of 9 classroom teachers, 4 ancillary teachers, 6 classroom aides, a speech therapist, a motor skills specialist, a reading specialist, and a guidance counselor in addition to the administrative personnel. Consultant services include occupational therapy, physical therapy, optometry, psychiatric and psychological.

The summer program format is one of intensive academic remediation followed by an enrichment course of study.

A second major thrust of the school is the enhancement of self-concept. In conjunction with this, each child is involved in group counseling daily. Individual counseling is on-going and continuous.

Four specialized programs are in operation:

- preschool for language/motor impaired 3-4 years old.
- self-contained class for the gifted, talented and creative learning disabled students.

c. pre-vocational class for learning disabled adolescents where academics are taught through woodworking.

d. regular program of intensive academic remediation combined with enhancement of self concept.

Both initial diagnostic evaluations as well as on-going diagnostic/prescriptive services are available. A full diagnostic service is also open to the community at large.

Funding comes from three sources: tuition, Aloha United Way, and donations, from individuals and community organizations. There are no federal funds. Limited tuition aid is available.

Assets is open to all children in Hawaii. Through extensive in-depth individualized programs which are specifically written for each child, every attempt is made to return the student to his neighborhood school as soon as possible. Approximately 30 percent of the students are so returned each year.

The summer session runs from June 16-July 25. Hours are 7:45 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. Registrations are currently being accepted.

Academics stressed

As it has for the past five summers, the Japan-American Institute of Management Science (JAIMS) is again offering its very popular Summer Computer Workshop for intermediate school and high school students. The workshop will run for six weeks, starting June 23 and will be conducted at JAIMS campus in Hawaii Kai.

This year's workshop will have a new and important feature—instruction in BASIC Level II programming and the actual use of the TRS-80 microcomputer. In addition, instruction in programming in FORTRAN and "hands-on" operation of JAIMS high speed FACOM 230-15 digital computer also will be included in the workshop.

The 1980 workshop will be divided into two sections. Section I will be offered on Mondays and Tuesdays from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. and Wednesday mornings from 8:30 to 11:30.

Section II will be offered on Wednesday afternoons from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and Thursdays and Fridays from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Course content of each section will be identical.

Tuition for the JAIMS Summer Computer Workshop is $120 plus a non-refundable $10 registration fee. The Friends of JAIMS tuition discount will apply. Tuition includes a microcomputer textbook, a flow charting template and all other necessary instructional material.

To provide sufficient time for each workshop student to have "hands-on" experience with both the microcomputers and the FACOM 230-15, registration is limited and will be on a "first-come, first-served" basis.

Therefore, it is strongly urged that reservations be made as soon as possible. For information and registration please write or telephone the Admissions Coordinator, JAIMS, 6660 Hawaii Kai Dr., Honolulu, HI 96825, phone number 395-2314.

Iolani's key: faculty

Iolani's 1980 Summer School features the usual strong academic instruction in both enrichment and remedial areas. An additional rich diversity of offerings for boys and girls from kindergarten through grade 12 includes art, dance, athletics, typing and a special reading skills course provided by Brown Reading Systems of California.

The core of the teaching, and coaching staff is Iolani's own faculty. Classes are deliberately kept small to insure individual attention for each student. Courses are designed to meet students' needs: Preparation for entrance to Iolani, advanced work for students who wish to accelerate, remedial work on weak areas, creative and enriching self-expression.

The athletic program introduces students to new areas of sports and strengthens skills already possessed. The emphasis is on building confidence and physical coordination and instilling a positive attitude toward athletics that will last throughout life.

Similarly the art and dance programs offer students chances to try new forms of expression which will enrich their lives for many years.

For more information and an illustrated summer school catalog please call Iolani School at 949-5355.

Top curriculum at Le Jardin

Le Jardin Academy, first and foremost, offers a solid, highly effective program in the reading, spelling and writing of English and in the basics of English grammar and arithmetic. Classes are small, and in reading and spelling the school follows the well-known Spalding phonetic approach.

Le Jardin's well-balanced curriculum includes, as well, science, history, art, music and physical education. Swimming classes are part of the latter.

Also, as the first part of the school's name may imply, it introduces all of its pupils, elementary and preschool, to conversational French in the early years and academic French in the upper grades.

James M. Taylor, long known in Hawaii for high educational standards, serves as Headmaster.

Get into the swim of things at Hawaii Child Centers

Summer starts out with a splash at Hawaii Child Centers' six centers! Most of the Centers programs will be highlighted by use of nearby community centers for swimming and other activities that are not possible to have at a pre-school. Some of the children learn not to be afraid of the water while others can swim and dive by the end of the summer.

Home away from home at Hawaii Child Center.

The Winter Learning Center Curriculum at Hawaii Child Centers' is modified for the summer to include sewing, leather craft, cooking, hula, more community activity visits and other Summer Fun activities.

This "change of pace" is particularly important for those children who attend the centers for 12 months. Language development, music, numbers, drama, science and social studies are continued during the summer months but at a reduced level.

Hawaii Child Centers' instructional program is based on a highly qualified and trained staff, quality equipment and materials (including tape recorders, science materials, musical instruments and audio-visuals). Most important, a low pupil/teacher ratio assures a close child/teacher relationship and individualized instruction. Self-confidence, success and a positive attitude toward school and learning result from this type of program.

Transportation is available at the Enchanted Lake, Ewa Beach, Salt Lake and Waipahu centers.

The Kailua Center offers Montessori classes in the summer (in the winter the Montessori Classes are relocated to their usual address at the First Baptist Church Windward near Castle Junction).

Hawaii Child Centers is a non-profit early childhood educational organization large enough to afford a properly trained educational organization large enough to afford a properly trained educational and recreational staff but with small centers so necessary for small children.

Because of the small size of the centers and the limited number of spaces available, parents are advised to register for the fall during the spring.

The programs in the winter include not only pre-school/day care but also After School Care at four centers and K/1/2 at the Kailua Center and K/1 at the Ewa Beach Center.

For registration information, contact the head teacher at each center or the main office in Kailua.

It's time to explore at Merry-Go-Round

Merry-Go-Round Child Care Center children have another child-tangling summer adventure in store this year: a summer filled with time to explore... to relate... to create... to find out about many new fun things...

Craft and Creative Arts will be a daily experience, balanced with lots of active sports. Older children from ages 6 to 9 years may also join the preschools, aged 2 through 5 years.

Field trips are scheduled at both locations - Kaneohe and Kahala - to coordinate with the units children will explore.

Fun happenings will also be brought into the school as units of study come alive with adventure. Special interest exploration will also be happening in cooking, hula, puppetry, swimming, ceramics and woodcraft.

Merry-Go-Round's summer program accommodates working parents because it covers the entire summer through Aug. 31, and is open a full working day. Merry-Go-Round in Kahala even has their popular Night Owl Club with evening hours as late as 1:30 a.m., six days a week, to give children a "night out" too, while mommy and daddy are out for the evening. Of course many children come at nighttime while their parents are working on a regular basis.

Advance registration will be accepted by calling 737-5558 - the Kahala location, or 247-4818 - for Kaneohe Bay Drive.

Holy Nativity features fun

The Church of the Holy Nativity School is offering a six-week summer fun program under the direction of Gary Culbertson. The program will run from June 16 to July 25.

The children in this year's program will be divided into three groups: 4 year olds, 5-6 year olds, and 7-8-9 year olds. Each day will start at 8 a.m. and finish at 3 p.m. A morning snack will be provided, but the children will be required each day to bring sack lunches.

Our summer fun program will emphasize having fun while featuring arts, crafts, music, drama, cooking, sports and weekly excursions.

Applications for admission to the summer program are available at the school office, or call 373-3232 for more information.

Also available are applications for the 1980-81 school year. Each of our classes from Pre-school through sixth grade are limited to 23 students.

Our class size allows us to provide the individual concern necessary for sound spiritual and academic growth.

Students who demonstrate their ability to handle our academic program, are accepted without regard to race, creed or national origin, as space is available.

Reading Company tunes up skills

The Reading Company offers complete reading instruction on an individualized basis to students from beginning readers to graduate students.

Every reader is unique. Each one of us has special strengths and weaknesses that make us different from everyone else. To take advantage of those strengths while working in the weaker areas, a completely personal series of lessons is designed for each student who attends The Reading Company's courses.

Initially, every individual is tested free of charge with the ICIRT (Individualized Criterion Referenced Test) for reading; a computer-scored diagnostic test. This tells the teacher the specific skills that the individual has mastered, the skills that the individual is struggling with, and the skills that need to be learned. From the results, the teacher is able to develop tailor-made programs of work in reading, and can constantly re-evaluate the individual's progress during the program.

Classes are held island-wide for your convenience, and we will be testing in your area soon. To make an appointment for your free, no-obligation test, just call 735-4461 and one of our counselors will help you. Ask about our family and group discount rates.

EPIC students can select tutoring help in program

EPIC Inc., with study centers in Moiliili, Kaneohe and Moanalua, will again offer a varied summer program to students wishing tutoring in reading, language skills, mathematics, speech and enrichment.

EPIC launches its fourth summer with directors Kenneth Yamamoto, Harold Kozuma, Stanley Yamamoto and Larry Fujinaka. The 1980 schedule leaves the basic tutoring format intact and allows room for individualized options.

For instance, some students may choose tutoring in a single subject, two hours a day, two to three days a week. Others may choose to receive tutoring in two different subjects during the same period.

These options are tailored to the individual's needs. Flexibility is stressed as EPIC so that each student has a personalized learning program. Discounts are available if a student is registered in more than one group session.

Each group package includes an initial diagnostic evaluation, a parent conference and three parent seminars conducted by professionals who are acknowledged experts in their areas. Individual tutoring sessions also may be arranged throughout the summer.

The instructors at EPIC's tutoring centers are well trained and, collectively, have years of background teaching children. Tutoring groups are small (from three to eight students) and intimate, allowing for intensive academic remediation as well as encouraging the development of oral skills.

If you feel your youngster can use assistance or if his teacher has indicated he may need some help to get over a hurdle, call EPIC.

Creativity Originality all children have it and EPIC's exciting 1980 Summer Adventure in Art program will focus on the artistic growth and development of each child's personalized and individualized style of expression with emphasis on creativity and originality.

EPIC Arts believes that children develop a rich reservoir of impressions through their senses as they interact with their environments.

These impressions, when properly stimulated and challenged, can help children experience themselves more fully through their unique expressions in the arts.

PARENTS: Help Your Child Read Better—Now!

Learn how a summer program can give your child new success in school. Reading Progress summer study program will teach your son or daughter to read, and to read better.

BACK TO BASICS

We offer no excuses. When we accept your child for instruction, we have accepted the responsibility of teaching him to read better. We get results. The ability to read at full capacity is your youngster's best insurance for success in school. The reading habits your child is developing during these crucial school years will either help or hinder him the rest of his life.

FREE COMPUTER TESTING

Your child is given a computer-scored, diagnostic reading test before enrollment. The computer printout will tell you, and will show us, the exact reading skills your child knows, and the skills he needs to learn. After he is tested, you have a conference with his Reading Progress Counselor. You receive the test results in clear, plain talk — no holding back. If we feel we can help, your child is put in the proper class for complete attention to his individual needs. You will be very pleased by the results. Ask your neighbor, perhaps her youngster is one of the more than one thousand children we have taught in Hawaii private schools.

School specializes in skilled, individual instruction

Skilled, individualized instruction in a caring and success-oriented atmosphere in reading, math, language arts to maximize student interest and skill development is the focus of Learning Development Resources.

Daily we listen to a variety of parent concerns with motivation; reading, math, spelling and writing problems; learning disabilities; lack of confidence in a school setting; concern over the development of study skills and educational preparation; with test preparation for private school exams; with the problems of the unstimulated gifted student.

Our summer programs focus on these concerns in a small group or individual tutorial setting.

Each student is individually tested to pinpoint his or her strengths and weaknesses and to determine his/her most successful method of learning. We adapt teaching strategy to the student, not the student to the teaching strategy.

From this information individual programs are designed and materials selected to maximize learning and student interest. Students may attend three or five days per week with a variety of program options.

After post-testing, a complete summer report is prepared for each student. Our six week summer school will be from June 16 to July 25 with other program options available in August.

Our SSAT and SAT preparation courses involve an evaluation of student academic strengths and weaknesses with a program designed to enhance reading—both vocabulary and comprehension, math, and writing skills.

Test-taking strategies, time management, more efficient textbook reading techniques have been pioneered in our study skills courses and are included in the SSAT and SAT prep program.

Students with special needs—the learning disabled, unmotivated and the gifted have long been special interests of LDR, and we feel that we are particularly qualified and successful with these students.

The unmotivated seem to develop and flourish in the supportive relationship developed with the teachers. Experienced, enthusiastic, creative teachers, many with Masters in Special Education, Math, and Reading work in a success-oriented, confidence building manner with visual/auditory perception, visual motor development, and with developing school interest and responsibility.

The Director of LDR, Mrs. Carol Wood, has worked in the field of Special Education and Counseling for more than 20 years, and has directed programs in Hawaii for the last seven years.

We have locations in Kailua, Honolulu, Pearl City, Kahala and operate on a year-round basis. Please call 595-4781 for further information.

Summer sports program planned at Mid-Pacific

For the 17th year Mid-Pacific will offer a summer sports program. More than 1,500 lessons were given in last year's highly successful session.

Classes in pool swimming for tiny tots (beginning at age 3) up through the teens will be offered for five two-week sessions beginning on June 16.

Small classes, of 40 minutes each, are taught by well-qualified teachers who create a positive learning atmosphere and promote self-confidence. Springboard diving will be taught again by Olympian Keala O'Sullivan Watson.

The Beach Safety and Sports Program has also proved popular. Classes in Ocean Safety and Snorkeling; Body Surfing, Boogie Boarding, and Board Surfing are offered.

In this island community it is extremely important to learn personal safety and survival skills, and to become knowledgeable about rip currents, waves, tides and sea life.

Children should be taught early about beach safety because of the high accident and drowning rate at our beaches.

There also will be classes offered in gymnastics and tennis.

Information concerning all of these courses may be obtained by calling 941-3024.
