"A" school quotas

"Motivated, fleet experienced Marines have a greater probability of successfully completing 'A' schools than new recruits." At least that's how officials in Washington, D.C. feel about the subject. It is also their belief that individuals entering "A" schools after service in the fleet reenlist more frequently than graduates of schools who enter directly from recruit training.

A soon to be published plan will list quotas by rating and class convening month for use by active duty personnel attached to fleet units. Under this plan, a greater proportion of school seats will be allocated for fleet use than in the previous year. Plans are also under consideration to provide commands with support for return travel funding.

This plan will be executed in hopes of recognizing the value of "A" Schools as reenlistment incentives or as rewards for deserving personnel.

LDO selection board

WASHINGTON, MCNews— Officials here have announced requirements for the Fiscal Year 1981 Limited Duty Officer Program.

A selection board to select qualified regular male chief warrant officers to be temporary LDOs will convene here in February, and will consider records of some temporary LDOs for selection to permanent LDO status.

All regular male CWOs in the permanent grades of CWO-2 through CWO-4, with 10 but not more than 20 years of active service as of Jan. 1, 1981, are eligible for consideration. Selectees will be appointed to the temporary rank of first lieutenant.

CWO applicants for temporary LDO must apply for, and be professionally qualified to serve in, one of 37 military occupational specialties listed without additional technical schooling.

Marine Corps Bulletin 1040 of July 15, 1980, includes a list of temporary LDOs who will be considered by the selection board for LDO status in 15 different MOSs.

All CWOs applying for the program must have their applications to the Commandant of the Marine Corps (Code MRRO-6) by Jan. 2.

Humanitarian Service Medal

WASHINGTON, MCNews— The Department of Defense announced the Humanitarian Service Medal for the Cuban Refugee Resettlement Operation.

Marines who distinguished themselves through direct participation in the operation, or in major, direct support beyond normal duty will be awarded the HSM. Marines attached to the following units during the periods indicated are eligible:

First Battalion, 8th Marine Regiment, and 1st Battalion, 6th Marine Regiment, May 7-June 6, 1980; 2nd Force Service Support Group Medical Helicopter Squadron-261, May 5-June 10, 1980; HMM-261 Command Element, May 5-22, 1980; Marine Fighter Attack Squadron-312 Detachment, May 4-30, 1980; VMFA-251 Detachment, May 29-June 10, 1980; and, Marine Aerial Refueler Transport Squadron-252 Detachment, May 12-19, 1980.

Work uniform regulations

It has been noted that particular work uniforms are being worn in unauthorized locations on and off station.

In compliance with Station Order 1020.4 1978, flight clothing is only authorized during flight operations and in the immediate vicinity of the flight operations, as in flight line or hangar areas.

The following are exceptions to the rule; flight crews may wear flight clothing between offices, on-base quarters and in dining facilities. Search and rescue teams in an alert status may travel between on-base quarters, while in the dining facilities and traveling to and from the flight line.

Coveralls, protective aprons and firefighting apparel will be worn only in work areas requiring such attire.

No work uniforms are authorized for wear on leave or liberty. Uniforms mentioned in the preceding paragraph may not be worn to or from off-station quarters, in the Marine Corps Exchange, bowling alley, K-Bay Hale Ohana, pizza parlor, golf course, snack bar, athletic areas, clubs, commissary (coveralls acceptable), 7-Day Store (coveralls acceptable) or in the package store.

Though the uniforms are approved for wear in these areas, they should be clean at all times.

For further reference, personnel are asked to review Station Order 1020.4, 1978, enclosure four, five and 12.

Voluntary payment

Hawaii Marine readers are reminded the newspaper delivery system in housing is similar to the bagging system used by the Commissary Store.

Youngsters who perform the work do so in hopes of being rewarded for their diligent efforts by voluntary payment or tips.

Voluntary payment for delivery is $1 for each four-week period. The majority of pay the youths receive who deliver the Hawaii Marine is the voluntary donation.

If you do not wish to pay, that is your prerogative.

The staff of the Hawaii Marine does not participate in the printing of the newspaper, nor do they control distribution into MCAS Kaneohe Bay housing.

Community Publications, Inc., publisher of the Hawaii Marine is responsible for housing delivery. Any questions or complaints should be directed to their circulation department at 285-0123.

Beauties board Orleans

Sgt Chuck Henry

ABOARD THE USS NEW ORLEANS AT SEA — Miss America 1980, Cheryl Prewitt of Ackerman, Miss., and two other 1979 pageant finalists visited elements of the 31st Marine Amphibious Unit on station in the Indian Ocean Aug. 19-20.

Prewitt, 23, along with the reigning Miss California, Deanna Rae Fogarty, 23, and Miss Alabama, Kathy Pickett, 27, arrived at 5 p.m. Aug. 19 via helicopter from an Arabian sea-based aircraft carrier. Their stop for a night aboard the New Orleans was part of a month-long tour that has taken the group to various American military installations in Japan, Korea, the Philippines, and other western Pacific and Southwest Asian nations.

UPON LANDING aboard the New Orleans, the ladies were whisked through the ship on a whirlwind tour, beginning with a dinner visit to the enlisted mess facility, escorted by Cpl Mike Ledworth, 21; of Port Huron, Mich., of Company F, Battalion Landing Team 2/3, in addition to many Navy representatives. Miss America and her entourage spent some 45 minutes there talking and having pictures taken with the assembled crowd of Marines and sailors.

From the mess decks, the group went on to view the ship's fire-room, engineroom and medical clinic.

The ladies were taken through helicopters of the Marine Amphibious Unit's aviation element, composite-Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron-262, and given an explanation of statically displayed Marine Corps equipment.

THE TOUR continued through the aircraft maintenance section of the ship, the communications center, squadron ready-room, and the combat direction center.

Once the tour was completed, a half-hour interview with the three was conducted in the wardroom and televised via closed-circuit monitors throughout the ship. Marines and sailors were afforded the chance to call in questions for presentation to the ladies.

During the question-and-answer session, Prewitt described herself as a "small town country girl" and said she preferred blue jeans to crown and gown.

"MY INITIAL reason for entering the regional level competition that led to state and national pageants," explained Prewitt, "was simply that I needed scholarship money for school. The Miss America program, unlike some others, is scholarship oriented. In fact, more than two million dollars worth of scholarships have been awarded by the pageant organization."

All three of the ladies had entered and missed selection in numerous competitions before competing in state pageants and becoming 1979 national finalists. They described the losses as well as the wins as character-building.

Prewitt, referring to an autobiographical article printed in Magazine, spoke of her involvement in an automobile accident while young, and a miraculous recovery that took place after considerable time spent in bodycasts and wheelchairs. The event had a profound religious impact on her.

"I THINK it was all part of God's plan that I heal as I did and was selected as Miss America," she said. "It's given me the opportunity to travel all over the world telling people of God's love."

Prewitt's immediate plans following placing the Miss America crown on a new winner in Atlantic City, N.J. this September, do not include marriage, she told viewing Marines and sailors. She intends to record contemporary religious music and tour with Christian organizations.

Deanna Rae Fogarty, Miss California 1980, told interviewers she first became involved with the Miss California pageant at the urging of her father, who was looking for a way to help her overcome a "dangerously self-destructive" depression.

WHEN ASKED her opinion of Marines she had met on the United Service Organization tour, Fogarty replied that she had always imagined military people to be quite gruff, but hadn't found that to be the case.

"I've been very impressed with how well we've been treated," complimented Fogarty. "Everyone's been quite gentlemanly."

Miss Alabama 1980, Kathy Pruitt talked about her feelings upon arriving in New Jersey for the pageant. "All the attention was unnerving at first," she remembered, but the program allowed her the opportunity to display her operatic vocal talent before a national audience.

When their exhausting evening was over, the ladies retired to staterooms for the night.

The following morning's itinerary called for the three to have breakfast with Navy and Marine Corps officers in the wardroom. They then departed for a morning of similar activities aboard the USS Frederic, another ship of the Navy's Amphibious Squadron One, carrying 31st Marine Amphibious Unit troops.

TOURS SUCH as this one, which each year take Miss America and six selected semi-finalists around the world to visit military personnel, have been organized by the USO for the past 18 years.

The visits don't go unappreciated, either. "I wish they could have brought all 50 of the pageant semi-finalists," remarked LCpl Pat Foley, 21, of Centralia, Wash., an administrative clerk with Marine Medium Helicopter Squadron-262. "Since they couldn't though," he continued, "I just hope my pictures with Miss America turn out well."

Tripler runs bloodline for military

As you lie on the table feeling and watching the blood ooze from your veins, you wonder if this pint will be one that saves a life. The thought also crosses your mind that perhaps someday you may be on the other end of that bloodline.

Donating blood is a simple, satisfying and almost painless way to help someone without even knowing who they are.

AT LEAST once a month a team from the Tripler Army Medical Center Blood Bank stations themselves at MCAS Kaneohe Bay to accept donations from military personnel.

Since almost all serious medical cases are transferred to Tripler, Army personnel handle all blood donations. They do all the drawing, processing and issuing of blood for military persons on island.

According to Petty Officer 2nd Class Stan Kramer, hospitalman, "The Marines donate approximately 34 percent of all the blood collected from active duty personnel.

Kramer explained, "A schedule is made up, divided into six units on the air station and we collect from a different one every time. We average between 20 and 40 pints each drive. First Radio Battalion has the highest percentage of volunteers from Kaneohe."

THERE ARE only two ways blood can be replaced in the body. One is the slow process of blood regeneration which takes place within the body. The second is by transfusion, which relies on blood donations from healthy human beings.

The first way is capable of keeping up with minor cuts and nosebleeds. But what about traffic accidents and gunshot wounds?

To accept blood from another person, it must be carefully matched to your own. There are four separate blood groups with two types of each, positive and negative. Blood banks keep some of each on hand at all times. But there is one more problem -- no matter how carefully it is kept, blood is only good for 21 days after it is drawn.

IT IS important for us to donate our blood as often as possible, ideally, every eight weeks. One pint could save a life--any life--or the life of someone you love.

Leatherneck tackles assignment

by Sgt Lamar Johnson

Upon returning from a second deployment with 3d Battalion, 3d Marines, 1st Marine Brigade, 1st Lt Steven Hummer of Annapolis, Md., received the Navy Commendation Medal during a battalion formation Aug. 11.

HUMMER WAS cited for meritorious service while serving as nuclear biological chemical defense officer, Battalion Landing Team 3d Battalion, 3d Marines, 3d Marine Amphibious Force, afloat in the Indian Ocean between March 1 and April 11, 1980.

"While afloat I served as the battalion training officer, and as usual, training was continuous. NBC was part of the training program," explained Hummer. "Later, I was assigned the specific duty of organizing a program to train the men in Nuclear Biological Chemical Warfare so they could successfully complete a mission in combat, if the situation were to arise."

FACED WITH the complex task of establishing, coordinating and supervising an NBC training program for elements of the Marine Amphibious Unit and the Battalion Landing Team while at sea, Hummer set a plan of objectives for his program.

He reviewed his plan with company commanders, NBC officers and staff officers. After being briefed of the situation, they went to work on accomplishing the assigned mission and presented the program to troops on four amphibious ships.

Hummer devised several carefully constructed periods of instruction. He blended classroom presentations and practical application with realistic exercises.

"A TOTAL OF 90 classes were given and almost 127 hours of practical application was included to familiarize the men with new charcoal-lined suits," Hummer pointed out. "I think we are the first unit to use the suits, and I feel they are much more appropriate."

The men were also given hands-on experience in using decontamination kits which each individual would employ during an actual fallout. Also included was instruction in the proper technique of administering atropine, used to relieve spasms and pains caused by chemical contact with skin.

During this entire period, Hummer pursued his goal of ensuring that every Marine and sailor could function and survive in an NBC environment.

"THOUGH IT was somewhat of a task," he continued, "the men were energetic and eager to learn more about NBC. In fact, two men spent 24 hours in the suits to test them. It was something new. Normally, NBC training is just a trip to the gas chamber, which is required only once throughout each term in the Corps."

According to Hummer, Achievement of his assigned mission was demonstrated by the confidence exhibited by the individual Marines and sailors. "They really learned a lot about NBC and I'm sure we could have gone out to complete an assignment and survived to go on to the next task."

THOUGH modest in his manner, Hummer was concise in describing the way he felt about receiving the Navy Commendation Medal.

"I was humbled to be recognized in that manner. I knew I had been selected for an award but I didn't know it was the commendation medal, especially for doing a job that I felt was just normal duty."

Hummer became commander of Company K 3/3, July 28. Hummer described a need for upgrading the full concept of NBC training. He said, "I feel there should be an NBC platoon with each battalion. There should be an occupational specialty designated for the skill too. It's important as a communications platoon in a battalion."

"NBC SHOULD be specialized so each individual would operate his own equipment. All of it requires some expertise. And, as more new equipment comes out for NBC, it will require more expertise."

He went on, "As it stands now, complicated procedures have to be performed and if they aren't practiced on a routine basis the men tend to forget. In my opinion a Nuclear Biological Chemical Control Center should be set up when a field exercise is being conducted. It isn't as simple as the mushroom cloud seen in pictures. Those chemicals travel and have to be monitored."

AFTER BEING deployed in the Indian Ocean, awarded the Navy Commendation Medal, and becoming commander of Company K Hummer seems overwhelmed with his newly sparked ideas on NBC. As he puts it, "It is imperative that this measure be given some consideration in maintaining the defense of our country and men."

"NBC SHOULD BE A SPECIAL FIELD" — Company Commander 1st Lt Steven Hummer, Company K, 3d Battalion, 3d Marines, 1st Marine Brigade, discusses his views on the importance of creating a nuclear biological chemical training field. Hummer received the Navy Commendation Medal Aug. 11 for meritorious service as the nuclear biological chemical defense officer aboard the USS Okinawa in the Indian Ocean earlier this year.

Energy

"Nature never gives anything away. Everything is sold at a price. It is only in the ideals of abstraction that choice comes without consequence."

Ralph Waldo Emerson

Americans are said to use more energy per person than any other people in the world. With only six percent of the world's population, we consume approximately one-third of all energy used on this globe.

PETROLEUM supplies us with most of the energy we use. Because production falls short of our needs, we are forced to import almost half of it, at a shopping cost of more than $45 billion a year. That's a ball-park figure.

Americans are very accustomed to using energy. If we continue at the present rate, it's estimated we'll run out of domestic oil supplies by the year 2007. We may run out of natural gas even sooner. In short, the overall energy situation in the United States is not rosy. Demands keep rising; prices keep going up, and the availability and future costs of supplies remain uncertain. In view of this, the country asks what can be done. The answer is simple: Conserve energy.

ENERGY conservation will help us extend our supplies and reduce our import burdens until we develop new energy and technologies and resources.

We could easily cut our energy use by an estimated 30 percent or more without personal hardships. One of the simplest and most effective ways is to reduce the energy we use for our homes and automobiles.

So, where do we begin? How about our homes? More than 40 million single-family homes in the United States are not protected from outside weather. Here are some tips to make sure yours is not one of them:

YOU CAN reduce the load on your heating and cooling equipment by as much as 20 to 30 percent by investing in insulation. Before this investment, find out what insulation your home requires. Your needs will depend on the climate in which you live and the construction material of your house. For guidance, consult a reputable insulation dealer.

Your windows and doors should be relatively airtight. Here's a simple way to test them: Move a lighted candle around the inside of the frames and sashes of your windows. If the flame dances around, you need caulking or weatherstripping.

A quarter can be used to test doors. Try slipping one under a door and if it goes through easily, weatherstripping is needed. Caulking and weatherstripping doors and windows can be a do-it-yourself project. Cost of materials for an average house (12 windows, two doors) is minimal and energy savings can amount to 10 percent or more.

WASTING precious conditioned air puts a strain on budgets. Air conditioners should be used only when you need cooling. For efficient operation, clean filters monthly.

Energy can also be saved in every room by following these easy steps. Close drapes to keep out heat in the summer and to retain heat during the winter. Adjust your water heater thermostat to 140 degrees if you have a dishwasher and 120 degrees if not. Close off unused rooms if not used regularly. They cost money and energy to heat or cool. If you have an open masonry fireplace, consider installing a glass front or screen. This will reduce the loss of warmed air through the flue.

MORE THAN 18 percent of the electricity we use in our homes goes into lighting. Most Americans overlook their homes, so lowering light levels is an easy conservation measure.

Lighting should be concentrated in reading and working areas, and where it's needed for safety (stairwells for example). Pick the right wattage bulb for your activity. You'll discover that using one large bulb instead of multiple small ones in places where bright light is needed will add to your savings.

It's a good idea to use fluorescent lights whenever you can. They give out more lumens per watt. For example, a 40-watt fluorescent lamp gives off 80 lumens per watt, while a standard 60-watt bulb gives only 14.7. The fluorescent lamp would save about 140 watts of electricity over a 7 hour period. That means money saved.

IF YOU HAVE outdoor lights, they should be used only if essential for safety. Gas lamps can save bucks by being converted to electricity. Turning off one gas lamp might save you $40 to $50 a year in natural gas costs.

Another way to save money on home energy costs is in your workshop, yard or garden. If you're handy with tools, you probably have an idea of how much electricity it takes to operate them. Electric tools should be kept in top operating shape. Badly damaged tools use more energy.

When buying tools, get the lowest wattage or horsepower you need. Fancy extras aren't usually needed. If you own tools with blades, keep the edges sharp. A sharp tool is safer, cuts faster and uses less power.

Gas-powered tools such as lawnmowers should be used conservatively. Don't leave them idling; turn them off to save gas. You also might consider trying hand power. For those small jobs, hand tools are the best money and energy savers you can find.

IN YOUR YARD and garden, recycle leaves, lawn clippings, garbage and manure by composting. Artificial fertilizers made from oil use up resources and are expensive.

Many energy-wasting mistakes can be avoided if we take time to realize the time and expense it requires to obtain these resources. Emerson touched on a good point. Nature isn't giving her resources away. We're buying it at a price that may someday be too high for us to pay.

Wheeler's whirl for roller-skating title

The eight contestants selected to participate in the Free-Style contest are: Harry Strong, Little Stewart, Marty Eckles, Rafael Rosarrio, Ann Williams, Tammy McMillan, Amber White and Tammy Burrows.

The finale of this five-part contest will occur Friday at 8:45 p.m. Each contestant will be allowed two minutes to skate to the music of his choice and demonstrate skating techniques. Special Services officers will judge the final round of

Golden rule sets key to harmony

by Sgt Dennis Litalen

MCAS Kaneohe Bay is often regarded by those who work here as a mere multi-million dollar Marine Corps installation. While this may be true, Mokapu Peninsula also serves as, and is called home by, a large percentage of Marine Corps and Navy families in Hawaii. There are 1,881 housing units here and, with a community this size, mutual respect is the key to enjoyable living. Tenants have various rights, as well as responsibilities, to the command, their neighbors and themselves.

TENANTS ARE expected to treat others as they would like to be treated. They are held responsible for the behavior of their dependents, guests and pets. Likewise, they are expected to keep their areas clean, safe and in good repair by using the self-help program when necessary.

Residents who do not maintain their quarters are subject to disciplinary action by the local command. An official notice called a Resident Area Report is given a tenant who is not maintaining his grounds properly. Four such notices constitute grounds for eviction.

THE RIGHTS and responsibilities of base housing tenants are numerous and detailed. They are outlined in Station Housing Order 11101.11J, Station Housing Manual P-11101.80 and Marine Corps Order P11000.15.

By becoming familiar with the housing directives, on-base living can be both enjoyable and simple. The bottom line for all tenants is for everyone to consider the needs and feelings of his neighbors.

Discussion about tenant responsibilities naturally leads to another important aspect of on-base living. What rights do station housing residents have?

ACCORDING TO Marine Corps directives they have the same basic rights afforded their civilian counterparts. As outlined in the housing order, where possible, the area approximately 50 feet outward from the walls of the quarters is considered private property intended for use by occupants and their guests only. If tenants would consider this when their children go out to play, many problems could be eliminated. Many tenants spend a great deal of time, effort and money to make their yards attractive and would prefer that their neighbor's children stay out of the yard.

Additionally, household handymen are encouraged to employ their talents for minor problems. Major repairs are performed by the Public Works Section. A call to the Trouble Desk at 237-2380 to describe the problem is all that is needed to file a work request. Normal response time for non-emergencies ranges from three to five days.

IMPROVEMENTS and preservations are generally allowed. Most common projects such as fencing backyards, enclosing lanais, painting and yard work are normally accepted as long as they do not alter the basic housing structure. Tenants with project ideas are required to bring a drawing to the Housing Office and have the project checked. Often the housing inspectors can help by giving suggestions from similar projects or by pointing out certain structural points concerning the house. Projects such as room additions or permanent enclosure of garages and carports are not allowed since they require structural change to the quarters and constitute an increase in living area, which is prohibited by Department of Defense directives.

WHEN TENANTS are asked to remove a project before they check out of housing, it is a consideration that must be offered the incoming tenant. If the incoming occupant does not want the project, it is the responsibility of the vacating tenant to properly remove it. This saves the new tenant and housing effort and money. Often removal may not be necessary.

For tenants encountering problems with housing conditions or a neighbor, there are procedures to resolve them. For housing complaints the tenant is asked to set up an appointment with Housing to discuss the problem so that appropriate action may be taken.

NEIGHBORS with problems are asked to settle them among themselves as mature adults. If the problem cannot be resolved, the Provost Marshal's Office may be assigned to mediate an agreement between the tenants, according to applicable station regulations.

To ensure tenants comply with housing regulations the station commanding officer has the right to evict tenants for repeated violations.

There are many causes for eviction. Some of the most common are recurrent misconduct of dependents or guests, subletting portions of quarters, unauthorized live-in guests and divorce or marital separation when an attempt is made to retain the quarters. As with any adverse action, there exists the right to appeal through a letter to the commanding officer or by request mast.

My Turn

I was sitting at my desk in the Joint Public Affairs Office the other day when I happened to glance out a window into the rain-swept concrete courtyard encircled by JPAO, the Joint Education Office, the barber shop, the Malt Shop, Family Theater and Special Services.

What I saw greatly offended and angered me.

Strewn all over the courtyard and around an overflowing GI can was an assortment of junk, trash, debris and other litter. I pointed out the unpleasant scene to my NCOIC and she had our JPAO photographer record it.

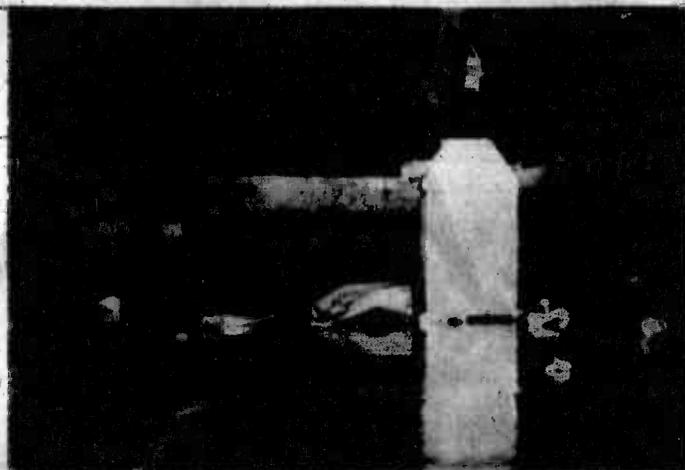

Now some people may believe I'm getting upset over nothing, but how would they like it if someone came along and left garbage strewn around where they work? I'll tell anyone who cares to listen that the irresponsible attitudes of these so-called "Marines" is a shame, an outright slap in the face of every concerned professional Marine and sailor, every dependent and every civilian worker at MCAS Kaneohe Bay and the 1st Marine Brigade.

When are people going to stop and think. It's amazing how irresponsible some of the people can be. Most of them will only be in Hawaii for a short time, yet they indiscriminately leave junk around, causing an eyesore and damaging the delicate beauty of the aina, or land, of Hawaii. No one has that right.

My point is this. Nobody likes seeing debris lying around. Let's cleanup after ourselves. Most important of all let's police those who refuse to do so.

Sgt Dennis Litalen

Trashy situation

God supplies needs, not desires

by Chaplain Leroy Gilbert

"God shall supply all your needs according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus."

Philippians 4:19

Will God pay my rent? Will he take care of my water and electricity bills? What about my car notes and gas?

These questions are often posed to me by individuals who have financial problems. The Bible tells us that "God shall supply all our needs." When we encounter trouble in our lives, we should rely on God's blessed assurance and prayerfully bring our concerns to his attention. Although God is fully aware of our needs, he is pleased when we acknowledge our complete dependence on him and seek his care.

One should realize, however, that although God is a precious and generous God, he does not supply our needs according to our desires. He does not spoil us with his love and gifts. Instead, he teaches us, through the scripture, to be responsible individuals. He tells us to seek first the kingdom of God and he will provide for our necessities. If we are faithful to God and trust in his promises, he will grant us more joyous blessings than we ever imagine.

Prayer:
Merciful God, thank you for caring for us and meeting our needs. Help us to trust you continually. When we are perplexed with financial problems, help us to realize that earth has no problem that heaven cannot heal. Amen

Thought for the day: "When you are on fire for God, you'll be too hot for Satan to handle."

"Hey, Smith... did you find our jackets yet?" "No! I'm still looking for my cover!"

Historical hill stands the test of time

by Sgt Dennis Litalien

On historic Mokapu Peninsula, home of MCAS Kaneohe Bay exist three distinctive land formations. The western portion of the peninsula is dominated by the imposing silhouette of Pyramid Rock. To the northeast lies Ulupau Head, an extinct volcanic crater quite similar in configuration to its famous cousin on the southern tip of Oahu, Diamond Head.

IN THE CENTER of Mokapu, amid daily air station activities stands the impressive, heavily-foliaged hill once known in ancient Hawaii as Puu Hawaii-Loa. Modern-day residents of Mokapu know it as Kansas Tower.

The hill was, according to Hawaiian folklore, the home of an ancient chief named Hawaii-Loa who settled his family in the Hawaiian islands. It is also said that he was preceded by the gods Papa, the earth mother and Wakea, the sky father credited with creating the Hawaiian archipelago. Legends contend that Hawaii-Loa was the original member of the Hawaiian race. Thus Puu Hawaii-Loa was home to the Hawaiian 'Adam.'

A SPRING WAS once located on the crest of the hill. Ancient Hawaiians used the spring for obtaining their fresh water. Unfortunately, construction work during the early forties destroyed the spring.

When construction of Kaneohe Naval Air Station began in 1939, Puu Hawaii-Loa became an important part of construction plans. The air station's first commanding officer, Cmdr. Harold Martin envisioned the hill as an ideal vantage point for use as an air traffic control center for K-Bay. From high atop the cone, aircraft controllers could see the entire western coast of windward Oahu. It also provided a clear view of activity above Kaneohe Bay and on the north-south runways of the peninsula.

During construction of the air station, nothing progressed faster or was more closely monitored than Martin's pet project on the air station. The completed structure on Puu Hawaii-Loa was dubbed Baker Tower. This was the first of several names for the tower.

ESTABLISHED and in operation, Baker Tower became a focal point of activity aboard the air station. Martin himself once said, "We began to build shelters all around the Baker Tower area. Baker Tower was the central gathering point on the air station before other facilities were erected." On the morning of December 7, 1941, Chief Ordnanceman John Finn stood waiting for the return of a seaplane flight that had been launched earlier that day. He and many others heard the drone of approaching aircraft. They strained to see the planes hidden by Baker Tower and the North Beach Dunes.

Once the aircraft cleared the tower, it became clear they weren't seaplanes. They were Japanese Zeros and dive bombers swooping in to attack Kaneohe and other military points on Oahu. Their sneak attack was the opening round of World War II.

ACCOUNTS SAY that the Japanese aircraft used the distinct landmarks of Baker Tower and Ulupau Head to identify the location of the air station. At this point in its history, Baker Tower was known as K-Tower, its code name used in communications and radio contact with aircraft.

was standing guard atop Kaneohe Tower when the attack occurred. As the air station reeled under the Japanese onslaught, the Marine continually fired his M3 Springfield rifle at the passing aircraft. The sentry received a minor flesh wound, probably from a ricochet, and was firing back in retaliation.

PUU-HAWAII LOA - This tranquil foliage draped hill is commonly known to modern day Leathernecks as Kansas Tower. When construction of Kaneohe Naval Air Station began in 1939 it rapidly became the focal point. It has been known over the years under a number of different names such as Baker Tower and K-Tower.

Cleaner decreases time and trouble

WASHINGTON, MCNews — Materiel Division officials here have announced the adoption of a new cleaner, lubricant and preservative for use throughout the Marine Corps.

THE TEFLONIZED product, a water displacer that will eliminate the use of solvent cleaners on mechanisms, will provide a complete cleaning, lubrication and preservative all in one product.

CLP can be used in temperate, arctic and desert climates. Test results show it contributes to lower maintenance costs, greater parts reliability, increased mechanical dependability, extended hardware life and cost effectiveness.

As a cleaner, CLP breaks loose grit, salt and corrosion that can damage metal parts. It also penetrates into mechanisms and into metal surfaces. Grit, rust and salt are loosened by CLP and forced to flow away as movement occurs, so bearing areas tend to cleanse themselves.

THE LONG LASTING lubrication qualities of CLP keeps parts working smoother and easier. An improved boundary film reduces friction, retards wear and inhibits build-up of foreign particles.

CLP also provides a long lasting protective coat on all metals, shielding them against rust and corrosion.

With the new product, Marines will find a long lasting thin-film lubrication that does not attract grit and salt particles, which in turn reduces the wear of metal parts.

Materiel officials have authorized the use of CLP as an alternative to other cleaners, lubricants or preservatives on the following items: M16A1 Rifle; M60 Machine Gun; Gun, Self-Propelled, 175mm, with equipment, M107; Howitzer, Light Towed, 105mm, with equipment, M101A1; Howitzer, Towed, 155mm, with equipment, M114A2; Howitzer, 8" SP, with radio set, AN/VRC-75, M110; and Tank, Combat, Full Tracked, 105mm Gun, with equipment, M60A1.

TECHNICAL INSTRUCTIONS will be published in the near future outlining the cleaning instructions for the authorized weapons.

CLP, listed under MIL-L-63460(AR), can be ordered in containers from an ounce to one gallon. When requisitioning CLP use the following information:

NSN	ITEM	U/I
9150-01-053-6688	CLP-7 Liquid	Gal
9150-01-054-6453	CLP-5 Liquid, w/trigger sprayer	Pt
9150-01-079-6123	CLP-1 Liquid	1 oz. Bt
9150-01-079-6124	CLP-4 Liquid	4 oz. Bt
9150-01-079-8125	CLP-3 Aerosol	15.85 oz. Cn
9150-01-079-6126	CLP-2 Aerosol	3.17 oz. Cn

According to officials here, CLP can not be stored in plastic containers used to store LSA.

"Don's family is my family. The Corps."

"It's not just anyone who can say she married into a family of 350,000. But you can't help feeling that way, being married to a Marine. You sense a closeness that's hard to find outside, a willingness to give each other a hand when it's needed.

Sure there are problems, and sometimes Don's away a little longer than I'd like, but everytime I shop for groceries, or it's time for the baby's shots, I'm glad my husband's a Marine."

You've got a lot to look back on. And even more to look forward to.

Retirement

Ten civilian employees, representing nearly 345 years of federal service, retired recently at MCAS Kaneohe Bay. Pictured from left to right are (top row): Peter Dela Cruz, supply department who retired with 38 years of service in Servmart. General forman of Utilities Valentine Tam Sr. of the Facilities department retires after 37 years. Stanley Kpayne worked with the Facilities department as the maintenance general foreman and retired after 37 years. James Sylvester from the Facilities department worked as a mechanical planner and estimator. He retired after 36 years. Richard Pavares Sr. worked with the Public Works Facilities carpenter shop and retired after 34 years. Bernice Wong, a clerk in supply, retired after 34 years. Frank Sousa, a grain operator for the Transportation department, retired after 30 years. Clarence Yee retired after 26 years of service. He worked as the foreman meat cutter with the Commissary. Nqrito Tokushige, an electronics mechanic with Ground Electronics Maintenance, retired after 25 years. Not pictured is Tatsuo Nakamura, an electric planner and estimator for the Facilities department, who retired after 36 years.

One of the Japanese Zeroes had suffered direct hits from retaliating Kaneohe guns. The pilot, Lt. Pusata Iida attempted to direct his crippled plane into a crash dive at one of the crippled hangars, but the plane slammed into the side of Kansas Tower near the location of the present-day Child Care Center.

AT THE END of World War II K-Bay, along with the rest of the world, was bustling with activity as thousands of sailors, Marines and other servicemen passed through Kaneohe Naval Air Station on their way back to the mainland and a return to civilian life. In April 1946, the aircraft control tower atop Kansas Tower ceased operations and control of the airfield was passed to the newly completed tower above Hangar 105. Since that time Kansas Tower has been generally inactive. The Windward Marine, forerunner of the present-day Hawaii Marine contained a regular column entitled K-Tower Observations and attempted to answer the question of the origin of the name 'Kansas' Tower. The January 23, 1959 issue reads:

"One informer said it was named after the first casualty here during World War II who happened to be from Kansas. Another claimed it was named after a similar tower located on the plains of Kansas for spotting fires." Neither answer seems plausible and a check of back issues of the Windward Marine does nothing to clarify the mystery.

IN RECENT years Kansas Tower has been used as a reception center for visiting dignitaries and VIPs. It is also used for orientation briefings and multi-media presentations for visitors.

Revisions

Headquarters Marine Corps updates Military Occupational Specialty Manual

WASHINGTON, MCNews — Some 11,000 enlisted Marines, most of them in aviation Occupational Fields, will get new Military Occupational Specialties during August.

THE CHANGES, which will occur automatically, are part of a sweeping revision to the MOS Manual which is updated each August and February. The August update involves 145 enlisted MOS changes—all but 10 in the aviation field—in what an official here said was the largest number of MOS revisions to occur in years.

A total of 123 new enlisted and two officer MOSs either have been established or given new titles. The Aircraft Maintenance OF (60/61) received 22 new enlisted MOSs, while four were deleted. Aviation Ordnance OF (65) received eight new MOSs, and Avionics OF (66) was dropped. A

"twin" Avionics OF (63/64) will take its place.

THE 63 SERIES within that OF deals with Organizational Maintenance and the 64 series with Intermediate Maintenance. The two merge into one Avionics OF (63) at the master gunnery sergeant level. Twenty-one new enlisted MOSs were added to the Avionics OF; 10 were shelved.

Most MOS additions came from breaking up a generally titled MOS into several specific ones. For example, there used to be one Aircraft Structures Mechanic MOS (6042). There are now 10 of them, one for each separate aircraft used by the Marine Corps.

Other MOSs similarly affected include: Aircraft Hydraulic/Pneumatic Mechanic; Helicopter Hydraulic/Pneumatic Mechanic;

Aircraft Safety Equipment Mechanic; and Aircraft Ordnance Technician. A total of 16 MOSs were added in this group.

MARINES WHOSE MOSs are changed by the revisions will automatically have their new MOSs recorded in their Service Record Books, according to officials here. The new MOS manuals should be mailed to career planners during August, officials say.

Negligence tempts thieves

by Sgt Phillip Williams

No one knows who they are or where they come from. One thing is sure though, they aren't wanted. Thieves are an unwanted breed in the Marine Corps. Their way of life cannot be tolerated in any way, shape or form.

AUTO THEFT is one form of crime involving thieves. The thefts are usually successful because of owner negligence.

One of the most common mistakes people make is leaving car keys inside unattended vehicles. This is the car thief's dream. Making a mistake like this not only makes the thief's job a lot easier, it also provides him with the incentive to commit the crime. Yes, leaving keys in an unattended car supplies a potential thief with the temptation needed to attempt the task. So the first point to remember is never leave ignition keys in an unattended vehicle.

ANOTHER unfortunate circumstance that plagues victims of auto thefts is providing the prospective rogue an opportune location in which to commit his crime. Leaving unattended vehicles in abandoned areas or inadequately lighted lots assists the crook in performing his dastardly deeds. Being able to "work" virtually unseen, the fiend slithers about these selected areas in search of a vehicle suitable for stealing.

Many motor vehicle owners like to keep prepared in the event of unforeseen mishaps. For example, some keep extra sets of keys on hand. The intention here is good but where vehicle owners make their key mistake is in putting them in an easily accessible place. Some place spare keys in a magnetized metal box and then insert it inside a hub cap or under the fender well of a car. It goes without saying that this is another thing that should never be done.

NO PARTICULAR pattern is set by the mischievous rascals who find joy in stealing other's property. Most auto thefts are done as a spur of the moment impulse. So, given the right circumstances, anyone is a potential thief.

Because compact cars are more popular on Oahu than larger cars, they are prime targets for car thieves. However, mid-size and luxury-car owners shouldn't feel exempt from thieves' clutches. Car thieves are not discriminatory. Any and all models are considered likely candidates for addition to civilian's personal possessions.

NO ONE knows who thieves are until they're caught. But before giving a person a chance to become a thief, take every precaution necessary to prevent temptations.

Remove the keys from the ignition, don't park in abandoned or inadequate lighted lots, and don't "hide" spare keys on the vehicle itself. Lock the doors on your car.

Do everything you can to slow down or prevent a thief's obsession to take what isn't his.

Military police crack-downs and public surveillance have contributed to a decrease in the numbers of auto thefts committed aboard MOAS Kaneohe Bay. According to statistics supplied by the Provost Marshal's Office, auto thefts have dropped 11 percent in comparison to the same period last year.

TOOLS OF A TRADE — Every precaution in the world can be taken, but there is no stopping a thief who's determined to steal.

Novice captures judo crown

by Cpl Cheryl Martin

Big hands, soft voice and an ever present grin make him the type of guy most girls would love to hug. He's cute, slightly shy and BIG!!! There's no need to guess why he's nicknamed "Baby Bear." His 6-foot-2-inch, 230-pound frame attests to that.

LCpl Charles Morgan, a military policeman at MCAS Kaneohe Bay, is "Baby Bear."

HIS MAJOR claim to fame is not being a star football player, although he's currently on the air station football team and he was a powerful defensive tackle in high school. He's not a weightlifter or body-builder, despite the fact that he does lift weights to keep in shape. And he is definitely not a boxer, though he's been in plenty of fights.

"Baby Bear" is a National Judo Champion.

After taking first place in the All-Marine Judo championships this year he went on to national competition in late April, taking third place in his weight class and qualifying for the United States Olympic Judo Team.

That's an accomplishment for a man who knew nothing about the sport until January of this year when he accidentally became involved.

MORGAN remembers, "I was lifting weights one day while I was stationed at Camp Pendleton when a gunnery sergeant asked me to spar with a guy he was training for the nationals. He just wanted me to stand there and let this guy throw me around the mat. Boy, did I have news for him! Needless to say, I beat him and the next thing I knew, I was on the Pendleton Judo team."

The 19 year-old champ explains the reason judo came so easy to him. "It came naturally because while growing up I had to fight a lot. Being number nine of 10 children and the smallest of all of them, even the girls, wasn't easy. I never got nuthin'."

Morgan claims to have been the "black sheep" of the family, mainly because he fought a lot and stayed in trouble at school.

"I got beat up more than anyone else! I have a hot temper and would fight for almost anything. Trouble is, I didn't win many of them."

"BABY BEAR" really wanted to go to college to play football, but financial problems made him decide to join the Corps. He has been in for a year and a half, and has been on Oahu since July.

Right now he is training for the Conseil du Sport Militaire games, held in Graz, Austria in late September. Prior to this he will attend a two-week training camp at the Olympic Training Center in Colorado Springs, Colo.

One of the main problems he has faced since arriving in Hawaii is the lack of adequate training facilities and a training partner. "I have only practiced against one guy here. Two flips and he was gone!"

"JUDO IS a lot different than street fighting," he said. "It's really hard for me to keep from punching somebody. Being good in judo takes strength, finesse and style."

"With the right coaching, I think I can beat anybody in my weight class. But everyone out there thinks the same thing about themselves. Once you get out there on the mat, no coaching is going to help. It's just you and the guy you have to beat."

"BABY BEAR" — Deep in thought, LCpl Charles Morgan prepares for a judo practice session. Physical preparation includes stretching exercises and calisthenics. Mental readiness is equally important.

THE DIRT TRAP

It's dirt in your oil that wears out your engine. With the Frantz, the dirt's in the filter ... not in the engine.

Properly installed and serviced, the Frantz Oil Filter keeps engine oil clean 100% of the time, saves from 70% to 90% on oil and filter costs by extending oil drain intervals, and helps conserve our number one resource ... oil.

Never change your oil again.

Smoker Puzzle Solved By Merit Taste.

Research establishes low tar MERIT as proven taste alternative to high tar smoking.

---

There is a difference between other low tar cigarettes and MERIT—a proven difference.

Tests with thousands of smokers provide solid evidence that MERIT delivers the flavor of high tar brands, and continues to satisfy long term.

Smoker Quest Ends

Blind Taste Tests: In tests where brand identity was concealed, a significant majority of smokers rated the taste of low tar MERIT as good as—or better than—leading high tar brands. Even cigarettes having twice the tar!

Smoker Preference: Among the 95% of smokers stating a preference, the MERIT low tar/good taste combination was favored 3 to 1 over high tar leaders when tar levels were revealed!

Long-Term Satisfaction: In the latest survey of former high tar smokers who have switched to MERIT, 9 out of 10 reported they continue to enjoy smoking, are glad they switched, and reported MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried!

MERIT is the proven alternative to high tar smoking. And you can taste it.
