Vieques Horsey Set Brings Safety To Marine Runways

BY CPL. FRANK WUNDOHL
CAMP VIEQUES, P. R.—For all its mechanized ingenuity, this modern Marine Corps had to go old-fashioned recently to win a battle of "horse power versus horsepower" here.

Ripping a page from America's frontier days, the Marine air detachment supporting current TRAEX IV field maneuvers called on a full-blooded Indian and his Leatherneck cohorts to make the landing strip safe for its aircraft.

Pilots, flying cargo to this operation, were more than a little elagined when wild horse and cattle herds stampeded across the runway just as they prepared to land.

Call The Horsemen
A hurried call to the 2nd Marines uncovered a handful of Marines who were experienced in horsemanship and volunteered to corral the airstrip's four-footed menaces.

Cpl. William Dillingler took charge of the would-be range riders. He found Pfc Leonard

Regulation Revised On Khaki Uniforms

Uniform of the day for all personnel here is now Summer Service. However, since the change took place Monday, a revision in Camp Regulations has been released affecting all male officers and enlisted Marines.

This change sets officers' summer uniform into three categories. Summer Service "A" includes coat and ribbons; "B", jacket with ribbons; and "C", ribbons without coat or jacket.

For enlisted men the uniform has been broken down to "A" and "B". "A" is tropical garrison khaki with bronze ornaments and ribbons, while "B" is cotton khaki with bronze ornaments and ribbons.

Uniform of the day for officers is now Summer Service "C" and for enlisted men either "A" or "B". However, the wearing of ribbons in camp and while traveling to and from work has been left to the discretion of the individual.

Naturalization Bill For Korean Veterans Awaits Senate Act

A bill granting an almost automatic citizenship to all aliens who have served with the U. S. Armed Forces for a minimum of 30 days since the outbreak of the Korean war has been passed by the House of Representatives and now goes to the Senate for final approval.

The measure permits quick naturalization of aliens admitted into the United States as immigrants or non-immigrants. The aliens must have served honorably, or must be serving, in the Armed Forces during the period beginning June 25, 1950, and ending June 30, 1955, when the selective Service Act expires.

During World War II identical law granted citizenship to 122,421 persons. The estimated number of aliens now serving in our Armed Forces, plus those honorably discharged, totals between 60,000 and 70,000.

Alien servicemen seeking naturalization under the proposed bill must furnish affidavits of at least two credible citizens who can vouch for the alien's good moral character. No subversives or conscientious objectors can be naturalized under this bill.

Petition for naturalization may be filed in any court having naturalization jurisdiction regardless of the petitioner's residence. However, aliens on active duty can be naturalized without appearing before any court.

FMF Head Leads Critique Covering Phibex Maneuvers

Lt. Gen. Graves B. Erskine, commanding general, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, arrived Tuesday at Peterfield Point for a one-day visit in connection with the critique held on the recent "Phibex II" maneuvers.

The general was greeted at the Marine Corps Air Station by Maj. Gen. Henry D. Linscott, camp commanding general, and Maj. Gen. R. McC. Pate, division commander, whose troops were engaged in the operation.

Upon the general's arrival he proceeded to the parade field at Hadnot Point where honors were rendered to him by units of H&S Bn., MB, and MCSD.

General Erskine attended a luncheon next day at the Officers Mess given by General Pate for the senior officers of the critique: Second Such Session

The critique, held in the Camp Theater Wednesday, was the second since the war games began.

HQMC Announces Consideration For Officer Promotion

Active duty Marine officers who were considered for temporary promotion to captain by the February 16 selection board were considered in the order of their permanent precedence.

Headquarters Marine Corps said the board considered the officers "in the order of their permanent precedence as approved by the Secretary of the Navy and not according to their temporary precedence as indicated in the current combined list."

The new combined lineal list, dated January 1, 1953, will be distributed next month and will show the permanent lineal precedence of officers considered by the February 16 board.

The current lineal list shows the temporary, rather than the permanent, precedence of regular officers commissioned in 1948, 1949, and 1950. The Secretary of the Navy has since determined the order of permanent precedence.

Under current law, the Secretary determines the permanent precedence of both regular and Reserve Marine officers who are assigned dates of rank as second lieutenants corresponding to dates of rank given to Naval Academy graduates. Until such determination is made, the officers are placed on the lineal list in the order of temporary precedence.

LT. GEN. GRAVES B. ERSKINE

The first was held in Vieques after the 48-hour "battle" which pitted Marines from the 2nd Division against other units of the Fleet Marine Force.

As director of the exercise, General Erskine controlled both the landing and defending forces, and umpire forces which evaluated the effectiveness of their plans.

At the landings held recently at Onslow Beach General Erskine was in attendance and expressed himself as highly pleased with the performance of all echelons.

After all operations on a scale such as this recent one, a critique always is held to discuss problems that have arisen during the course of the maneuvers. New landing techniques, better use of equipment, and all points that will lend assistance in making such operations greater in striking power are discussed.

High Court Fixes Law On Military Levy

Last week the Supreme Court exempted servicemen from paying local property taxes while stationed away from their homes. The court ruling also excused military personnel from paying local income taxes, except taxes imposed by their home residence.

The new ruling, passed by a 7 to 2 U. S. Supreme Court vote, asserted that the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act had more scope than merely preventing servicemen from paying double taxes. The court members interpreted the act as saying that a serviceman cannot gain or lose a residence solely by military service.

These clarifications on the Civil Relief Act were made in the "Dameron Case," which was appealed to the Colorado State Supreme Court and reviewed, at the U. S. Government's bequest, by the U. S. Supreme Court for final decree.

Lt. Col. Clairborne Dameron, USAF, stationed at Denver, Col., paid assessed property taxes on apartment furnishings under pre-text. He contended that Section 514 of the Civil Relief Act provided that for the purpose of taxation in respect of any person, or of his property, income, or gross income . . . such person shall not be deemed to have lost a residence or domicile . . . solely by reason of being absent therefrom in compliance with military orders, or to have acquired a residence or domicile in any state, possession . . . solely by reason of being so absent.

Denver contended that the act was only to prevent double taxation and that since Dameron's home state, Louisiana, had no personal property tax, Colorado was justified in taxing him.

Will Your Marine Corps Experiences Have Any Effect On Your Civilian Life After Discharge?

Sgt. Charles M. Miller, Fuel Section, Supply Depot

My Marine Corps experiences definitely will have an effect on my civilian life. I've learned a lot since I enlisted and I think one of the most important things is what I've learned about human nature.

Cpl. George F. Lehman, 1st Bn., 6th Marines

The Marine Corps has changed my viewpoints on life in general. I never before thought as seriously as I do about my future. The Corps has given me the initiative and the opportunity to go to college. I couldn't be bothered with education before I came in. Yes, I can truthfully say that my experiences will affect my civilian life to my advantage.

Pfc R. C. Guild, 1st Bn., 8th Marines

The Marine Corps has taught me discipline, something I lacked in civilian life. I used to resent it, thinking someone was just trying to push me around. Now I'm not so cocky and know the value of discipline among men. I think I'll make a better civilian when I'm discharged.

Cpl. Carl D. Stephens, 3rd Bn., 8th Marines

The Corps has affected me in such a way that I don't have to be back in civilian life to realize it. My folks just think I have learned finally to behave myself but it goes deeper than that. I've traveled more, grown up a little, and have learned a great deal from the men I've known. I could have done all this on the outside too, but it would have taken years and years to accomplish what the Marine Corps has done in a short time.

Belgian-Born Marine Keeps Brushes Busy During Tour Of Duty In Corps

A globe-trotting artist since the age of five, 2nd Division Pfc William Triest is still wielding his colorful brushes in the Marine Corps — as a hobby.

A Belgian by birth, 24-year-old Triest and his family fled their country as the German armies rolled across Europe in 1940. In France he narrowly escaped capture by the Nazis before fleeing to Switzerland.

Having traveled over a good part of the world, the dark-haired Leatherneck explained that he paints with his water-colors wherever he goes. His art book reflects scenes not only from Belgium, France, and Switzerland, but also from Spain, Uruguay, Canada, and the United States.

Versatility

Since he has been on this side of the ocean, versatile Triest has attended McGill University in Montreal, Canada, for two years, worked on Wall Street in New York, and brought an interest in a citrus grove in Florida.

While in New York he displayed some of his paintings at the annual Greenwich Village Spring Art Show. Continuing his water-coloring in the Marine Corps, which he entered in March of last year, Triest has sold several of his paintings to Lejeune Leathernecks.

Pendleton Marines Plan 'Operation Sea Jump' Maneuvers

More than 24,000 troops of the 3rd Marine Division, Camp Pendleton, Calif., will team up with the Navy this month to participate in the largest Navy-Marine Corps maneuver on the West Coast since 1948. The amphibious assault landing, called "Operation Sea Jump," will be staged in the San Diego-Oceanside, Calif., area from Monday to May 17.

Climax of the exercise will be May 5, with a full-scale landing of the 3rd Division under Maj. Gen. R. H. Pepper, commanding Task Force 12. Opposition to the landing will come from aggressor forces under Brig. Gen. Wilbur S. Brown, commander of Task Force 13.

Horsey Set back-riding Marines were on the warpath.

Bluebird's determined little tribe cleared the mavericks from the strip and surrounding area in less than a week. A few errant wanderers continued to gallop from the brush at the whir of approaching aircraft, but the Leatherneck horsemen developed considerable skill with their riatas and kept the runway clear.

Now that Marine aircraft horsepower no longer battles Vieques horse power, "Chief" Bluebird and his Marine braves ride a peaceful dawn to dusk patrol along the edge of the airstrip just as insurance against future horse power intrusion.

He is a member of the G-2 section, Division headquarters.

"While I would like to study art in Europe when I am released from the Marine Corps," says Triest, "I still consider it just a hobby."

And an active hobby it is. Many a week end artist Triest can be seen on the sands of Wrightsville Beach, N. C., with brush in hand. When he visits his stepfather and mother, General and Mrs. G. Bruxner-Randall of Orlando, Fla., his pallet and brushes go with him. General Bruxner-Randall is a retired British army officer.

Triest is not the only member of his family who has been skillful with the brush — his great-grandfather, Van Avermaet, was a celebrated nineteenth-century water-color artist of the Flemish school.

Ship Christened For General R. S. Geiger Receives Portrait

A portrait of the late Lt. Gen. Roy Stanley Geiger has been presented by the Marine Corps to a transport ship named in his honor.

The ship, USNS General Roy S. Geiger, has seen many voyages to and from Germany and other European ports since her transfer to the Navy by the Maritime Administration last September.

The presentation was made at the Brooklyn Navy Yard by Col. Miles S. Newton, commanding officer of the shipyard, to Capt. Neils Olsen, skipper of the transport.

General Geiger was the first Marine to lead an army. He assumed command of the 10th Army on Okinawa when its commander, Lt. Gen. Sim Bolivar Buckner, was killed.

Camp Geiger, home of Force Troops and formerly called Tent Camp, is named after the general.

Civilian Purchases Of Savings Bonds Drop During 1952

Headquarters Marine Corps has announced that during 1952 there was a decrease in purchases of Savings Bonds by Marine Corps civilian employees. Percentage participation of civilian employees of the Naval Establishment as a whole increased.

During the past year there was an increase in both the amount of bonds purchased and the percentage of participation by Marines on active duty. However, Headquarters believes the participation should be greater.

Headquarters has asked commanding officers to encourage cooperation in promoting this program as participation "is a mark of the thrift and good judgment expected and accepted as a characteristic of Marines."

Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, in a letter to the National and State Chairmen and Directors of the U. S. Savings Bond Program, has stated: "The sale of U. S. Savings Bonds promotes thrift, gives the holder a buffer against misfortune, and makes him a partner in the Government."

2nd Division Show Solicits Thespians

The 2nd Division is preparing an original, all Marine musical revue for presentation in the near future. Actors, singers, and dancers are needed. Previous experience is desired but not necessary.

Division personnel interested in participating have been asked to telephone 3604 or call in person at the Area 3 Theater, Bldg. 300, for interviews to arrange for auditions. Auditions are from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. Monday through Friday.

Dollars Still Coming In Red Cross Drive

Though having closed officially Saturday with a last-minute spurt, the 1953 Red Cross Drive here is fast approaching the $11,000 mark. According to Col. P. W. John, campaign chairman, contributions are still coming in from Division and Force Troops as well as those units in Vieques and the Mediterranean. After these are received, it is expected that the 1953 total will be much higher, possibly exceeding last year's mark.

NSLI Insurance Is More Economical If Premium Waived

Service personnel have been advised by the Department of the Navy that a waiver of premium payment on National Service five year term life insurance will be to their financial advantage.

By waiving payment of premiums, the holder of a term policy of either national service or U. S. Government insurance does not give up his coverage. He merely stops paying for the insurance which will be his automatically, free, while on active duty with the Armed Forces.

If a term policy is waived the holder will no longer receive dividends on it, but the amount of the dividend received through payment of premium would not equal the amount saved by non-payment.

Five year level premium term insurance does not have a cash value and there is no accumulation of any investment value. This is not to say that other insurance plans such as, Ordinary life, 20 payment life, 30 paymet life, 20 year endowment, 30 year endowment at age 60, 62 or 65 are to be waived.

Term insurance is not permanent insurance and carries with it only renewal and conversion privileges. Waivers of term policies can be made by seeing unit first sergeants or pay clerks.

Maj. Gen. Howard, Inspector General Of Corps, Retires

Maj. Gen. Samuel L. Howard, 62, inspector general of the Marine Corps and a veteran of the defense of Corregidor, retired recently after 39 years of service.

As commander of the 4th Marines on Bataan, General Howard received the Navy Cross for distinguished service. A graduate of Virginia Military Institute, he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps in 1914.

General Howard served aboard several naval vessels during World War I. He was with the 2nd Brigade Marines at Santo Domingo, and later joined the Garde de 'Maiti in 1929.

Eight months before Pearl Harbor, General Howard took command of the 4th Marines at Shanghai, China. The regiment was withdrawn in late November 1941 and arrived in the Philippines on December 2, five days before the beginning of the battle that lasted until the fall of Corregidor in May 1942. During the prolonged siege.

General Howard remained a prisoner of war until he was liberated in 1945 and returned to the United States. In 1946 he assumed command of the 1st Marine Division (Reinforced) with headquarters at Tientsin, China. In 1948 he was ordered to Headquarters Marine Corps as President of the Naval Examining Board and President of the Marine Corps Reserve Examining Board. He remained at that post until ordered to duty as Inspector General in 1950.

A: Not legally. When your landlord accepted the rent for the first month and gave you the key, you became the legal occupant of the apartment, although neither you nor your family moved in physically. The only way the landlord then can remove you as the tenant is in compliance with the eviction provisions of the federal rent laws.

Q: Can the rent office request a landlord to refund an overcharge although the tenant does not request it and does not sign a complaint?

A: Yes, the rent office can and often does request a landlord to refund an overcharge even though the tenant might not enter into the complaint. The reason for this is simple. In many cases tenants are afraid to complain of overcharges because of possible reprisal action, even though the rent laws do protect the tenant from such reprisal.

President Extends Missing Person Act To February 1954

President Eisenhower has signed a bill extending the Missing Persons Act of 1942 from its old April 1, 1953, deadline to February 1, 1954. This bill will allow pay and allowances of missing personnel to continue to be paid to their dependents.

A bill has been introduced in Congress to clarify the situation which arises when a missing person is discovered to have died before a promotion or appointment was given him. Under present legislation such a promotion would have to be revoked.

This new measure would allow the services to use as the date of death the date evidence of death was received or the date death was assumed to have occurred, as determined under the Missing Persons Act, rather than the actual date of death.

PUT THE BLAME WHERE IT BELONGS

"There is no such thing as an accident."

Most people have heard this statement in one form or another. In the case of automobile mishaps, the facts leading up to an "accident" seem to bear it out.

Due to an understandably human viewpoint, an automobile wreck is usually observed backwards. Often no more than the results are seen with the cause hidden in the shambles. Key words in refutation of the term "accident" are the two in which the event is couched, "cause" and "effect."

An automobile wreck, having a cause and an effect, is not an accident but a human or mechanical failure. The mechanical failure itself often is a result of human error because the machine is theoretically perfect and has deteriorated through the negligence of the owner.

There's A Difference

To cure a disease a medical practitioner must go to the cause. A disease leaves time to determine the cause and cure. A wreck doesn't.

Since the cause of the wreck is so often the driver, it becomes the responsibility of everyone in the driver's seat to take a look at the accident picture.

The causes of automobile mishaps are the fault of many people—the driver, the teacher, those responsible for the roads and traffic law enforcement. The individual cannot think for all, so he must take the responsibility of protecting himself and others into his own hands.

An accident is defined as an unforeseen circumstance without one's foresight or expectation. The definition could well be the prescription for the prevention of the accident. A little foresight can make the difference.

Chaplain's Corner

No matter how indefinite their ideas and beliefs may be about the existence and nature of God, most people admit that there is a God in whom they believe. They say of that God that He created them and that they have certain duties and obligations to Him. Most of these people will admit that those duties and obligations are summarized for them in the Ten Commandments.

A sizable number of these people - particularly and especially the young men of our country enter the Armed Forces. And then they change. What happens is often expressed in the words "We only live once and who knows when we'll die?" With that alibi as their justification they proceed to disregard all the laws of God.

But does that alibi justify them in the harm and evil they are doing? Aren't they only kidding themselves? The error in what they are saying should be apparent to them. The implication is that they would have lived more than once or that they would not have died if they were not in the service. Who are they kidding besides themselves?

Whether or not they might live longer as civilians, they still would only live once. Whether they are in service or in civilian life they will die. Early or late, in civilian life or in service, there is only one life and one death.

Whether in civilian life or in the service that one life takes a lot of living - and that living must be good living, living according to the Commandments of God. If it is lived according to the Commandments of God, that one death won't be so terrifying. If it isn't lived according to the Commandments of God, no alibi is going to justify or excuse their deeds. — Chaplain F. A. Dowd, 2nd Combat Service Group.

WM Maneuvers

By CPL. ELOSIE TURNER
Not since WM's were WR's have we had field music for Women Marines—until one week ago, that is.

Last Thursday night at the call, "2200, lights out," the arresting notes of "Taps" being played just outside Barracks 63 caused everyone to pause, look and particularly listen.

Equally surprising to members of the company was the fact that the person behind the bugle was Woman Marine Pfc Ernestine Smaniotto.

Use Experience
Ernestine, a talented 18-year-old from Santa Barbara, Calif., assumed she would be able to utilize her four years' band experience in the Marine Corps. But she was told at recruit training it would "never happen."

Soon after resigning herself to the fact that women are not assigned to the musical field in-day's Corps, Ernestine attended a band concert at Parris Island.

"Band music sends me out of this world, she says," and before I realized what was happening the girls carried me on the stage." At this point the band master handed over his baton and she found herself conducting "California, Here I Come."

No Abandonment
It was then she decided she would not abandon music during her three-year enlistment. The day after graduation from "boot camp" she purchased the bugle in Savannah, Ga.

When she arrived at Lejeune with suitcase, sea bag, and bugle, she met 2nd Lt. Helen Dunkelberg, officer in charge of training, and the idea of field music for WM Co. was born.

In four years with the Santa Barbara High School band, Ernestine played the bass drum, field drum, Sousaphone, flugel horn, and trumpet.

Scholarship

It was a combination of excellence in music and extra credits earned in leather craft artistry that won the WM a scholarship in fine arts to the University of Santa Barbara at the age of 16. She played trumpet with the college band during the 51-52 football season.

Her work in leather carving began at 13 when she went to work for the Corral Saddlery in her home town to earn extra money. Before she graduated from high school she was teaching the art in evening classes held in the shop.

At one phase in the instruction in leather carving technique, she had some of her high school teachers for students, both men and women.

Monday morning she sounded reveille for the first time in Barracks 60. "It was effective, I guess," Ernestine smiled. "At least everyone hit the deck and it certainly aroused me."

Pfc. Smaniotto is assigned to Organic Supply, Supply Depot.

Camp Varsity Nine Aiming To Scuttle Naval Fleet Teams

Winners of 22 out of 23, including five exhibition tilts and two important conference victories over Cherry Point, Lejeune's red-hot baseball squad will be in Norfolk, Va. for six games.

Tomorrow and Saturday Lejeune tangles with the Norfolk Naval Air Station. Destroyers, Atlantic, furnish the opposition in single games Sunday and Monday and Lejeune collides with the Little Creek Amphibs Tuesday and Wednesday, the latter class is expected to give the most trouble.

Mentors Zlober and Viegell have named a probable pitching rotation for the six-game Norfolk set, planning to start right-hander Ben Johnson and Nev Pelleschi in that order against the Flyers.

Five Apiece
Johnson has a 2-0 record, although he hasn't gone the route yet. He worked five innings against the University of Connecticut and five more against Wilson Teachers College.

Pelleschi hurled a no-hitter against Wilson in his first start last week, after a couple of good relief performances. He has won one and suffered no losses. Lefty Jimmy Waugh gets the nod in the opener against the defending Atlantic Fleet champions, DesLant, with ace Bob Grim hurling the Monday game. Waugh is 1-0 and Grim has tossed five victories.

Zlober plans to go with southpaw Bob Reich and Chuck Chronopoulos in the two-game set against the Amphibs.

Over 100 Turn Out For Grid Practice; Squad Cuts Coming

Spring football practice started last Monday as head coach Maj. John Crawley greeted 110 candidates.

Crawley plans to whittle the spring squad to 50 or 60 men by the end of this week and start handing out the pads and helmets prior to the first contact sessions, scheduled for next week.

Monday and Tuesday were given to screening personnel and yesterday Crawley started familiarizing the players with the T formation as he uses it.

Among the 110 hopefuls were 15 of last year's performers, including star halfback Frank Nastro, defensive halfback Al Hoisington, fullback Bob Howe, center Steve Lazarus, end Mel Yeshnik, guard Tony Anton, and tackles Lou Golie, Fred Lippard, Mort Vaserberg, and Bill Sutherland.

Major Crawley announced that spring drills are closed for new candidates, with a few exceptions for players with heavy college experience who were unable to report before.

Lejeune, P. I. Sharp Shots Take Southeastern Honors

SSgt. Don L. Smith, Rifle Range Detachment, Marine Barracks, topped a field of 419 Marine rifle shooters with a score of 557 out of a possible 600 to take first place in the annual Southeastern Division Rifle and Pistol Matches, in which Marines from 16 bases in the southeastern area competed here last week.

Already a distinguished shooter, Sergeant Smith can only earn the honor of winning and is not eligible for another medal, according to match rules.

Winner of the pistol match was MSgt. John A. Fowler, MC-RD, Parris Island, S. C., first in a field of 250 pistol shooters.

Formal ceremonies terminating the matches, in which 43 rifle and 21 pistol medals were won, were held Friday morning at the Rifle Range.

Congrats

Following an introduction by Lt. Col. John W. Russell, commanding officer of the Rifle Range Detachment, Maj. Gen. Henry D. Linscott, camp commanding general, welcomed the guests and congratulated the winners.

Grapplers Get Fifth At Toledo

The undefeated Carolinas AAU champion Camp Lejeune wrestling team garnered 12 points over the week-end to take fifth place in the National AAU championships at Toledo, Ohio, Thursday through Monday.

In the free-style class, "Tiny" Albers took third place as heavyweight, while Charles Linstrom worked his way into fourth place in the 191-pound division.

The Greco-Roman class, in which the use of the legs for holds is forbidden, provided the Leathernecks with the most points. Jeryl Wilson took first in the 136-pound division, John Carmichael third at 147 pounds, and Joe Gasquez second at 160 pounds.

Previously, Coach Dan Moser's wrestlers had gone through the season without defeat, having been tied once by Millersville, Pa.

Camp Keglers Roll In MAISAC Title Quest At Fort Lee

A strong Camp Lejeune bowling team, which has already won the March of Dimes and Atlantic Fleet tournaments, and taken second place in the 5th Naval District tournament, all under 2nd Division colors, is now competing in the Middle Atlantic Inter-service Athletic Conference championships at Fort Lee, Va.

Composed of kegglers from Force Troops, Marine Barracks, and 2nd Division, the team has an overall bowling average of 177. Their main stumbling block toward winning the tourney will be the defending champion, Fort Lee, which has grabbed up everything in sight this year.

Last year, three Marines were runners-up in the tilt.

Cindermen Spill Quantico In Dual Meet

QUANTICO, Va.—Frank Womer, Camp Lejeune's ace pole vaulter, jumped the 12-foot, eight-inch mark here Friday, to set a new Quantico record as the North Carolina Marines defeated their Virginia cousins, 70 1/5 to 60 4/5 in a dual track meet.

The Lejeune thinclads took nine of 15 possible first places with Roger Montgomery of College pacing the winners. Montgomery won the 100 and 220-yard events and ran the leg position on Lejeune's winning relay team.

Close all the way, the meet was not decided until the final few minutes when the mile relay team won with a 3:30.9 time, and Lou Dailey took broad jump honors with a leap of 20 feet, six inches.

Another thriller was provided when Bernard Williams came from behind at the last turn of the 440 to beat out Quantico's Chambers and take an important second place in that event.

The Virginia Marines owned the high scorer of the afternoon in hurdles ace Herb Loui of University of Hawaii. Loui breezed to victories in the 120 highs and 220 lows, and took second place in the broad jump with 19 feet, seven inches.

season with a 17-mark average in a 16-game win skein going 11-5, an overall record, including exhibition games, is 22-1.

With both teams having on a college diet, Lejeune proved it would be in the All-Marine and ice races, giving brilliant Grim a two-run edge in game and then slapping Flyer hurlers for 13 runs second to give southpaw Reich his second win season Tuesday.

In Tuesday's game bunched three runs in on a walk and four strikes "Chico" Rodriguez, Dave Don Brown, and Paul Don added two more in the first triple by Ed Kababek, by Jim Ryan, a wild pitch force out.

In Monday's game, which started night ball at Lejeune east coast Marine play season, righty Bob Reich won once again.

The Flyers forged in lead in the third, getting Lou Ciconne's single, a Joe Morelli, and Jack double.

waiting and in tip-top shape for Marines and their dependents at Point's two golf courses. We can vouch that the easier number two, is one of nature's miracles. It has mobile trees in front of the ball, expanding sand traps, cups that shift to the left, and other horrendous hazards.

the pro or the better player, there's course number one can start playing with the "big boys" as soon as you get below 110. But for the beginner, or the golfer who's been 10 years and plays like a beginner, course number two (it is) hard enough.

thing to do is get out there, either by car or Marine bus. You need your own clubs; there're plenty available at the post. The only thing you have to buy is balls, being the Marine Corps type, at 35 cents each. There're a bit higher. You can pick up tees from almost any part of the base, left by goldfod's "money bags."

Drawing A Crowd

worry about the crowds. If you're playing over the week-ends, probably will be plenty of people ahead of you, unless you are there the same time the sun does, and that's a bad habit.

to alleviate the crowds, members of the Golf Committee at their week-ends, organize the golfers, and keep things pretty fast.

if you're alone, or in a pair or threesome, you'll make up a group with someone out of the stockpile of golfers waiting. From you're on your own. You may get some advice from your caddy, or tell you how to grip the club, the correct stance, the swing, and then show you how by dribbling the ball ten feet at approximately right angles.

Blowing Your Top

There are two holes on the small course, the third and tenth, you may have to apologize, although you're going to be close to your top. On the short third, a hook off the tee will land in the third row of somebody's tomato patch.

There are many ways of breaking your spirit. After hacking around the course for a couple of holes, you finally get a good drive, and the chances are you may never find it, and it lying in front of a tree. So you aim your shot to miss and a split second later it comes ricocheting past your ear, completing your 18 holes you head for the nineteenth, the hole to cut about ten strokes of your score. By the time you get to the barracks you have shot a pretty respectable round. If you're honest, and want to be serious about the game, go to the course and take some lessons for a nominal fee.

TEN PIN CHAMPS—The 2nd Division bowling quintet, 1953 holders of two team titles, the March of Dimes and the Atlantic Fleet, recently received congratulations from Maj. Gen. R. McC. No-Hitter!

Nevio Pelleschi twirled a no-hitter, his second in two years, as Camp Lejeune mauled Wilson Teachers College twice here last Wednesday, 12-0 and 20-0.

The big righthander, getting his start this season in the first game, faced only 22 men, and missed pitching a perfect game when he walked Stan Morris in the fourth. Ahead of most of the batters, Pelleschi struck out 16 with a blazing fast ball and an occasional curve. Pelleschi tossed a no-hitter last season in the North Carolina semi-pro tournament at Roxboro.

The second game was more of a run-away. Lejeune jumped on starter Marv Franklin and Estrain for eight runs in the first inning when five Marines went to bat twice. Lejeune kept piling on the runs, getting two in the second, one in the third, six in the fourth, two in the fifth and one in the sixth. Wilson used up two more pitchers, John Ward and Len Knoff.

Camp Track Team Faces Duke Friday

The undefeated Camp Lejeune cindermen will face one of their most dangerous foes of the season at Durham, N. C., tomorrow when they take on Duke University, a leading contender for this year's Southern Conference crown.

Duke recently lost a dual meet with Princeton University, 82-2/3 to 47-1/3, while the Marines defeated Quantico, 70-1/5 to 60-4/5, last week.

Lejeune has shown strength in the dashes and short trips with Frank Rivera, Roger Montgomery, and Bernard Williams bringing in the points.

Hasn't Hit Stride

Montgomery, holder of the State of Maine record in the 100-yard dash with a 9.6, hasn't hit his stride this year, since he's never been pushed to win this event and has suffered from a pulled muscle since early season.

Rivera's best time has been in the 440, where he recorded a 50.6 in the Marines' opening meet with North Carolina State.

On the other hand, Duke has shown well in the mile and two-mile as well as most field events and the hurdles. One of the Blue Devils' brightest prospects is sophomore Joel Shankle who took the low and high hurdles, broad jump, and tied for first in the high jump for a total of 22 points in the loss to Princeton.

Friday's meeting with Duke will be the Marines' second entanglement with a Southern Conference foe, having defeated N. C. State, 80-51, in the season's opener.

SSgt. Ronald "Red" L. Lowe, General Supply, MCSD, developed his love for fishing as a youngster in Prospect Park, Brooklyn, N. Y. He even abandoned school for two weeks trying to snag some of the big bass that dwell in the Prospect Park ponds.

His youthful enthusiasm for fishing has not abated during the years, and his knowledge of angling for fresh water fish has grown. In 1951 Red Lowe battled a ten-pound largemouth bass out of Wallace Creek, setting an unchallenged record. He cast for the fish for two hours using an "injured minnow" plug and it took him 20 minutes to land the denizen when it finally decided to strike.

Besides the beautiful bass displayed here by Lowe, he caught a 6¾-pound pickerel and a three-pound four-ounce bluegill out of Wallace Creek. In Southwest Creek he landed a 27½-pound striped bass in 1951, fishing with light casting tackle. In the years that he has been stationed here, Lowe has won more fishing contests than any other Marine.

And it's not all luck, according to Lowe. Says he, "Three-quarters of all the fish in these creeks are dying of natural causes and if the fishermen don't get hot something disastrous will happen." He suggests that fresh water fishermen stop fishing open water. Instead, fish around submerged stumps and logs. If fishing with worms, bait with three, use no float, and let them rest on the bottom. Also, keep your eye out for feeding fish.

Chow Down

If you see a big bass feeding, you can be pretty sure that he will not travel far. Bass, the big ones, stick fairly close to one spot. With this in mind, return and cast for your fish. Patience will be rewarding, says Lowe. This is how he has caught all his big fish.

"Red" says that April and May are the best fresh-water months on the base, and that some of the best fishing along the North Carolina coast can be found here if anglers will take the time to hunt the bass down. A fresh-water fishing license is needed to fish on the base if you use an artificial lure. A county license costs $1.10 and a state license $3.10. They can be purchased in the men's department of the PX.

And, Marine, while the bass bite well in the fresh water, so do the big salt-water channel bass. SSgt. William H. Ostermier Jr., attached to Hq. Co., Force Troops, landed this 30½-pound beauty from the surf off New Topsail Beach. He used a surf rod and reel, with cut mullet for bait.

Lejeune Wins A-Corps Bouts

He won a unanimous decision heavyweight George El Toro, while Art Dick Hill came with victories in earlier Jones and Manny eliminated in preliminaries.

Port City Nine Battered Badly By Camp Lejeune

Camp Lejeune helped inaugurate Wilmington's baseball season Saturday, trouncing the Babcock and Wilcox Athletic Association nine, 15-0, in Legion Stadium.

After Mayor E. L. White threw out the first ball, two other chuckers, B&W's old timer Johnny Edens and Lejeune's young southpaw Jimmy Waugh, tangled in a pitching duel that ended after three innings when Edens called it a day.

Edens, reputed to be near his forty birthday, gave Lejeune nothing to hit at over the first three frames, and reliver Tommy Dann managed to hold off the Marines through the fourth before Lejeune found the range.

Andy Payonk doubled to left to start the fifth, collecting the game's first base knock. He went to third when Dann fumbled Waugh's bunt and scored on "Chico" Rodriguez's squeeze, Chico reaching first on a fielder's choice. Dave Krings sacrificed the runners along, and Don Brown brought them home with a hooking line drive double.

In the sixth, the Marines feed off on Dann and his two successors on the ill-fated Babcock and Wilcox mound, "Sap" Prestwood and Ivon James, for seven Marines, six scoring before the first out.

Waugh sailed along, giving up singles in the sixth, eighth and ninth.
